Major Effort Launched For Nuclear Test Ban

U.S., Soviet And Britain Open Parley

Little Cold Water Put On Optimism By Kremlin Aide

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union launch here today a major new effort to reach a nuclear test ban agreement.

The conference is regarded as the best chance in almost two years to break the long deadlock. U.S. officials, however, laced their expressions of hope with words of caution.

They stressed that many issues —both major and minor—will have to be solved, particularly the U.S. and Soviet differences over inspections to guard against test cheating.

In Moscow, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko dashed a little cold water on optimism. He told correspondents that the Soviet Union can agree to only three on-site inspections a year. The United States contends this is not enough. Gromyko also insisted that France must join in any test ban agreement.

The nuclear talks begin this afternoon when four Americans, four Russians and two Britons sit down at a conference table in the State Department.

Representing the United States will be William C. Foster, director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency; Charles C. Stelle, deputy U.S. representative at the 18-nation Geneva disarmament taiks; and two officials not yet identified.

The Soviet delegation will be headed by Nikolas T. Fedorenko, Soviet ambassador to the United Nations, and Semjon K. Tsarapkin, chief Soviet representative at the Geneva conference.

Britain's chief representative will be Sir David Ormsby Gore, ambassador to Washington, who was England's chief delegate to the disarmament conference before his appointment to this country.

The ground was broken for the new round of nuclear talks by an exchange of letters between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev, made public Sunday.

Khrushchev told Kennedy he would accept two or three on-site inspections a year as part of a system to prevent sneak testing. Kennedy replied he was encouraged by Khrushchev's change of attitude which the Soviet premier called "a major act of good will on the part of the Soviet Union."

More U.S. Citizens Due From Cuba

Between 900 And 1,000 Prisoners' Kin Also Expected

HAVANA (AP) — Between 900 and 1,000 relatives of Cuban invasion prisoners and up to 205 Americans are expected to leave Cuba for the United States this week.

The Swiss Embassy announced Monday night that the way had been cleared for the relatives of the former prisoners to sail aboard the American freighter Shirley Lykes, probably within a week.

An embassy spokesman said up to 205 American citizens living in Cuba also are scheduled to leave on two plane flights, one each on Wednesday and Friday. They are U.S. citizens being repatriated and have no connection with the prisoners' relatives.

"The Cuban and American Red Cross have put in motion all necessary preparations," a spokesman for the Swiss Embassy said.

"The Cuban authorities have assured they will make available exit permits for between 900 and 1,000 Cuban citizens directly related to the former Playa Giron (Bay of Pigs) invasion prisoners."

A list of 1,080 relatives was given to the Cuban government by the now defunct prisoners' mothers committee, a committee member said.

Appeals to leave were still pouring in from Cubans claiming to be related to the prisoners.

In December at least 2,000 applications were turned down when the American freighter African Pilot took out a load of 900 prisoners' relatives. The ship had delivered a major installment on the prisoners' ransom.

Castro described the relatives he permitted to leave then as a bonus for the ransom of $3 million in cash and $53 million in foodstuffs and medicines pledged for the freedom of the 1,113 invasion prisoners. The prisoners were flown to Florida at Christmas time.

Rhodes Undecided About Need Of New Tax Or Hike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes said today it is too early to determine whether the state's financial needs can be met without new or increased taxes.

Rhodes made his observation at his first news conference since inauguration Jan. 14. Members of his cabinet and top aides participated in the session in the governor's Statehouse office.

Finance Director Richard L. Krabach said a survey by two certified public accounting firms showed state obligations of some $83 million more than cash on hand.

He said the obligations were incurred before Rhodes took office.

Krabach said the state has been spending at a rate of $55 million more than it was receiving for the bookkeeping year ending next June.

The finance chief said expenditures must be brought into balance with revenues and a way determined to liquidate the $83 million owed.

The recent discharge of some 3,000 provisional employes and possibly others will bring outgo in balance with income, Krabach asserted, but said liquidation of holdover obligations appeared more difficult.

Krabach was quoted in published reports as saying it would not be necessary to ask additional taxes. But Rhodes said he regarded the statement merely as a recommendation and declined to say whether he felt it could be adopted.

The governor said he would hold regular news conferences at 8:30 a.m. on Tuesdays, and 3:30 p.m. on Thursdays. But he said he would be available at other times to newsmen and that his directors had authority to fill newsmen in about their operations.

Rhodes said administration legislation would be submitted early to the General Assembly, but he added that he was not going to try and guess the outcome.

Rhodes said that Welfare Director Denver L. White would consider a bill for acceptance of federal aid to dependent children of the unemployed along with possible reorganization of his department.

The governor said he would have a state-of-the-state message to the legislature but set no date for presentation.

The governor said he has named administrative assistants to represent him at offices being set up in Cleveland and Cincinnati. They are Joseph LoProesti of Cleveland and Lyle G. Herbold of Cincinnati, both attorneys.

Rhodes said he plans to take his cabinet to Cleveland, Cincinnati and other Ohio cities "as regularly as we can make it" to view conditions there first-hand.

Unlike his predecessor, Michael V. DiSalle, who used his first press conference to speak against capital punishment, Rhodes said in answer to a question that as long as the death penalty is Ohio law he will enforce it.

"That's how I feel personally and privately," he added.

Lisbon Man Given Term For Burglary

6 Ask Probation At Arraignment Of Indicted Group

LISBON — A Lisbon man received a prison term, two other defendants pleaded innocent and six filed guilty pleas and asked probation as Judge Joel H. Sharp completed arraignments Monday for persons indicted by the January Grand Jury.

Seven earlier had requested probation and two others asked trials after pleading innocent.

A motion to quash the indictment against a Californian was overruled. Two more failed to appear and their bonds were ordered forfeited.

William E. House, 25, of 510½ W. Lincoln Way was sentenced to 1-15 years for burglary at the R. D. Whitacre Mining Co. and 1-7 years for larceny of tools from the Lisbon Steel Fabricating Co.

The terms are to run concurrently at the Ohio State Penitentiary.

House is presently on parole and Judge Sharp said if he is returned as parole violator, his concurrent terms will not start until his parole term is concluded.

Daniel Leyman, 27, of Salem R. D. 4, pleaded not guilty to burglary of Ivan's Exchange and on two counts of auto theft in taking a 1950 pickup truck of Arthur Boothe of Salem.

Pleading guilty and requesting probation were:

Division St.'s Traffic Will Become One-Way

Council gave approval Monday night to an ordinance establishing one-way traffic, southbound only, on Division St. between Fairview St. and W. 8th St.

The change will not become effective until Feb. 22, at the earliest, as a 30-day wait will be required before the regulation is enforced. The ordinance does not contain an emergency clause, which would place it into effect immediately upon approval by Mayor Bert H. Goodballet.

The change means that traffic will be allowed to move only downgrade on Division St. between Fairview and W. 8th Sts. The street committee recommended the change, reporting that auto wheels churned up the surface when drivers attempted to ascend the steep grade.

Driver Jailed In Speeding Crash With 2

A 31-year-old Jefferson County man was jailed late Monday night after his speeding auto rammed the rear of two autos halted for a traffic light on the "super-road" stretch of W. 8th St. at Lisbon St., police reported.

Thomas Ed Ryan of Steubenville was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol as an aftermath of the crash that demolished his 1957 model convertible and a 1955 four-door sedan driven by Tony Fortune, 74, of Box 52, Irondale, and also damaged a 1963 model German import operated by Melvin T. Sprouse, 31, of Hammondsville R. D. 1, police said.

No one was injured, although officers said Ryan's car was traveling an estimated 65 miles an hour when it hit Fortune's car from the rear and then bounced off into the Sprouse auto. The rear bumper of the Hammondsville area man's car was damaged.

Fortune and Sprouse told police they were halted in parallel lanes on the four-lane highway. All the vehicles were westbound.

Fortune and Sprouse related details of the mishap to Patrolman L. E. Richard, who investigated. He said Ryan refused to give a statement. The crash was timed at 11:14.

Convicted after a hearing today before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, Ryan was fined $200 and costs, sentenced to five days in City Jail and his operator's permit was suspended for 90 days. He pleaded "no contest."

Officer Richard testified when he arrived at the accident scene he found Ryan "staggering all over the street." He said there was a strong odor of alcohol about the motorist and inside his car. Ryan admitted consuming "four or five beers earlier in the evening," the patrolman testified.

Tullis Seeks At-Large Post With Council

2 Democrats File For First Ward In Wellsville Contest

A former East Liverpool councilman filed Monday afternoon for the Republican at-large nomination and two political newcomers entered for the Democratic nomination for First Ward councilman in Wellsville as party activity increased with the filing deadline for the May 7 primaries only two weeks away.

Four East Palestine Republicans, who had announced earlier, also entered officially with the County Election Board.

Another East Palestine Republican filed this morning. He is Algernon E. Berresford, seeking the nomination for Fourth Ward councilman.

The new at-large candidate in East Liverpool is Howard A. (Hap) Tullis, 2028 Michigan Ave., who served as First Ward councilman in 1958-59.

Filing for the Democratic nomination for the First Ward post in Wellsville, now held by Mrs. Kay Drago, were Raymond Sirianni, 421 Commerce St., and Russell R. Keefer, 337 Highland Ave.

The GOP candidates in East Palestine asking new terms were Mayor Robert Harding, Auditor George Archibald, Solicitor Jack Cohen and Councilman James H. Lynch of the Third Ward.

Tullis' filing gives the GOP three candidates for the at-large posts. Robert W. Sample Jr., a veteran councilman, and Joseph W. Chetwynd filed earlier.

In Courthouse Dispute

Reinstatement To Job Reversed By Judge Sharp

LISBON — A September ruling by the Ohio Personnel Board of Review, reinstating a Democratic Courthouse worker to her job after she had been fired by Republicans a year and a half before, was reversed by Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp Monday.

Judge Sharp's 26-page ruling affirms a second dismissal by Columbiana County commissioners on grounds that Mrs. Jane Case of Columbiana violated her provisional Civil Service status by engaging in political activity.

Mrs. Case was one of four Democratic workers released by commissioners Feb. 1, 1961, when Republicans gained the majority membership of the board.

The Democrat workers won an appeal to the Ohio Supreme Court, which ruled they have provisional Civil Service status, and three of them were re-instated. The fourth job was abolished in 1961.

When Mrs. Case returned to work in the summer of 1962, the commissioners again released her, claiming she had been in political activities contrary to regulations governing her status.

Mrs. Case appealed the decision, won a ruling for reinstatement from the state board, and the commissioners then voted to change the dismissal to a 120-day suspension, citing her "sincere, hard-working and deligent" record.

Beaver To Get Lower Taxes

Commissioners See 1½-Mill Rate Slash

BEAVER — A tax reduction of 1½ mills is in the offing for Beaver County residents this year.

Commissioners James E. Ross, Eli G. Corak and Sam M. McCune and County Controller James F. Tress said today the rate for 1963 will be set at 11 mills.

The current rate is 12½ mills, which has been in effect for three years.

Commissioners said there are a number of reasons for the reduction which will cut the county's tax revenue about $415,000 this year.

One of the major reasons is the steadily increasing assessed valuation in the county. In 1959, the assessed valuation was $245,875,159 while it is estimated at $275 million this year.

Another factor is an increase in county funds. The county started 1962 with $1,453,547 in all funds and began this year with $1,770,954.

The commissioners also explained the county will receive 50 per cent of the cost of the proposed hospital addition from the federal government and 75 per cent of the cost of major improvements at the county airport from the state and federal governments.

Kerr-Mills state and federal funds will add nearly $100,000 which was not budgeted for this year.

Tress said the county will continue to operate on a pay-as-you-go basis and will end 1963 in the black.

House Group Airs Sunday Closing Laws

Legal Tangle On Printing Solved; Bettis Confirmed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The legal tangle over printing apparently unsnarled, the Ohio Legislature was ready today to get down to serious business.

—The House Judiciary Committee scheduled its first hearing today on proposed revisions of the state's embattled Sunday closing laws.

Threatened with a complete breakdown of the legislative machinery in the absence of a printing contract, the legislature's solution to the logjam was almost anticlimactic.

It passed an emergency bill directing Finance Director Richard Krabach to obtain new bids and award a legislative printing contract to the "lowest responsible bidder" by next Saturday noon. Only three House members objected. There were no protests in the senate.

The perennial soft-drink tax bill made its appearance sponsored by Rep. Raymond E. Hildebrand, R-Lucas. It would levy a penny on each bottle of soft drink 16 ounces or under and two cents for each bottle above that amount. Half the proceeds would be assigned to mental hygiene and correction and the other half to public education.

Besides its action on the printing controversy, the Senate confirmed five of Rhodes' appointments:

Wayne Ward of Columbus, as director of the Department of Personnel.

J. Warren Bettis, Salineville, Columbiana County, and Carl R. Johnson of Westerville as members of the Public Utilities Commission.

Council Raps Rail Merger, Asks Hearing

Following through on a lengthy meeting with railroad union representatives Friday night, City Council adopted a motion Monday night officially placing the city on record against the proposed Pennsylvania - New York Central railway merger and asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to conduct hearings here on the question.

The motion to oppose the merger and seek local ICC hearings was made by Councilman Floyd Murray, chairman of the planning committee, which arranged the discussion with the rail union spokesmen Friday night. He was seconded by Councilman Frank Duffy.

The action was approved, 6-1, with Councilman Robert W. Sample Jr. dissenting. Sample said he favored the idea of holding hearings but did not favor the immediate opposition to the merger.

Councilman George E. Willshaw voted with the majority, but later told Council he would not have favored the motion if he had understood it placed the city on record against the merger in addition to requesting the hearings.

Council conferred Friday night with representatives of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers to learn the unions' side in the merger fight. Pennsy offi-

Way Cleared For Crossing Lights, Gates

Council Legislation Assures System At Broadway, Walnut

Council enacted legislation Monday night to fulfill the city's part of a bargain with the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. and clear the way for installation of a new system of automatic guard gates and warning lights at the Broadway and Walnut St. crossings.

Council approved resolutions declaring the city's intent to close three little-used crossings. They are the E. 2nd St. Crossing, which lies immediately adjacent to the Boardway Crossing; the so-called Campbell's Crossing at Martins Alley along the River Rd. and the West Ave. Crossing at 1st St., near the Newell Bridge.

Legislation officially closing the crossings may be enacted 90 days after approval of the resolutions giving notice of intent. As a matter of fact, the E. 2nd St. and Campbells Crossings have been closed for months and the so-called West Ave. Crossing virtually is unused because the area it serves was isolated by construction of the West End - California Hollow Freeway.

Council's action, therefore, will confirm a situation that has existed in fact, if not in name, for many months.

The legislation was passed

No Quick Decision Due

School Board Again Airs Fate Of Central Building

The cost of constructing a new high school plant may be prohibitive for the community, two members of the Board of Education suggested Monday night as the problem of Central School was discussed in a brief caucus following the regular meeting.

The board indicated no quick decision will be reached on whether to replace Central with a new laboratory building or construct a new school in another location.

It met informally to air opinions on the recommendation of the Citizens Committee for Better Schools that a new school be constructed. The committee made its recommendation last spring following a series of seminars on school finances at which the problem of Central School arose.

James Lowe, president, and James Moss, vice president, said they would prefer to see a new school but were apprehensive about the cost to the taxpayers.

The estimate of a cost on a new school is $3 million or more while the cost of a laboratory building has been estimated at roughly $1½ million.

Three other board members — C. Walter Ashbaugh, Mrs. Nessie R. Dunlop and Harry D. McConville — said they had been approached by merchants who expressed fears that erection of a new school in another location would detract from the downtown area.

Supt. Ralph W. Betts pointed

Chief Bryan Again Asks Building Code

A budget of $178,773 for fire department operation this year, along with requests for a pay increase, a new pumper and replacement or remodeling of the North Side station were submitted to City Council Monday night by Chief Charles Bryan.

More than 90 per cent of the budget will be required for salaries which Bryan listed at $151,260.

The other budget expenses are fire equipment maintenance, $2,500; fire hose and nozzles, $5,000; fire hydrants, $3,000; lands and buildings, $3,000; laundry, $800; fuel and light, $3,500; telephone, $700; radio, $1,113; gas and oil, $800; incidentals, $3,500; stationery, $200; fire alarm system, $500; furniture and fixtures, $300; uniform allowance, $3,100, and fire school, $500.

Beaver To Get Lower Taxes

Commissioners See 1½-Mill Rate Slash

BEAVER — A tax reduction of 1½ mills is in the offing for Beaver County residents this year.

Commissioners James E. Ross, Eli G. Corak and Sam M. McCune and County Controller James F. Tress said today the rate for 1963 will be set at 11 mills.

The current rate is 12½ mills, which has been in effect for three years.

Commissioners said there are a number of reasons for the reduction which will cut the county's tax revenue about $415,000 this year.

One of the major reasons is the steadily increasing assessed valuation in the county. In 1959, the assessed valuation was $245,875,159 while it is estimated at $275 million this year.

Another factor is an increase in county funds. The county started 1962 with $1,453,547 in all funds and began this year with $1,770,954.

The commissioners also explained the county will receive 50 per cent of the cost of the proposed hospital addition from the federal government and 75 per cent of the cost of major improvements at the county airport from the state and federal governments.

Kerr-Mills state and federal funds will add nearly $100,000 which was not budgeted for this year.

Tress said the county will continue to operate on a pay-as-you-go basis and will end 1963 in the black.

House Group Airs Sunday Closing Laws

Legal Tangle On Printing Solved; Bettis Confirmed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The legal tangle over printing apparently unsnarled, the Ohio Legislature was ready today to get down to serious business.

—The House Judiciary Committee scheduled its first hearing today on proposed revisions of the state's embattled Sunday closing laws.

Threatened with a complete breakdown of the legislative machinery in the absence of a printing contract, the legislature's solution to the logjam was almost anticlimactic.

It passed an emergency bill directing Finance Director Richard Krabach to obtain new bids and award a legislative printing contract to the "lowest responsible bidder" by next Saturday noon. Only three House members objected. There were no protests in the senate.

The perennial soft-drink tax bill made its appearance sponsored by Rep. Raymond E. Hildebrand, R-Lucas. It would levy a penny on each bottle of soft drink 16 ounces or under and two cents for each bottle above that amount. Half the proceeds would be assigned to mental hygiene and correction and the other half to public education.

Besides its action on the printing controversy, the Senate confirmed five of Rhodes' appointments:

Wayne Ward of Columbus, as director of the Department of Personnel.

J. Warren Bettis, Salineville, Columbiana County, and Carl R. Johnson of Westerville as members of the Public Utilities Commission.

Council Raps Rail Merger, Asks Hearing

Following through on a lengthy meeting with railroad union representatives Friday night, City Council adopted a motion Monday night officially placing the city on record against the proposed Pennsylvania - New York Central railway merger and asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to conduct hearings here on the question.

The motion to oppose the merger and seek local ICC hearings was made by Councilman Floyd Murray, chairman of the planning committee, which arranged the discussion with the rail union spokesmen Friday night. He was seconded by Councilman Frank Duffy.

The action was approved, 6-1, with Councilman Robert W. Sample Jr. dissenting. Sample said he favored the idea of holding hearings but did not favor the immediate opposition to the merger.

Councilman George E. Willshaw voted with the majority, but later told Council he would not have favored the motion if he had understood it placed the city on record against the merger in addition to requesting the hearings.

Council conferred Friday night with representatives of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers to learn the unions' side in the merger fight. Pennsy offi-

Way Cleared For Crossing Lights, Gates

Council Legislation Assures System At Broadway, Walnut

Council enacted legislation Monday night to fulfill the city's part of a bargain with the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. and clear the way for installation of a new system of automatic guard gates and warning lights at the Broadway and Walnut St. crossings.

Council approved resolutions declaring the city's intent to close three little-used crossings. They are the E. 2nd St. Crossing, which lies immediately adjacent to the Boardway Crossing; the so-called Campbell's Crossing at Martins Alley along the River Rd. and the West Ave. Crossing at 1st St., near the Newell Bridge.

Legislation officially closing the crossings may be enacted 90 days after approval of the resolutions giving notice of intent. As a matter of fact, the E. 2nd St. and Campbells Crossings have been closed for months and the so-called West Ave. Crossing virtually is unused because the area it serves was isolated by construction of the West End - California Hollow Freeway.

Council's action, therefore, will confirm a situation that has existed in fact, if not in name, for many months.

The legislation was passed

Chief Bryan Again Asks Building Code

A budget of $178,773 for fire department operation this year, along with requests for a pay increase, a new pumper and replacement or remodeling of the North Side station were submitted to City Council Monday night by Chief Charles Bryan.

More than 90 per cent of the budget will be required for salaries which Bryan listed at $151,260.

The other budget expenses are fire equipment maintenance, $2,500; fire hose and nozzles, $5,000; fire hydrants, $3,000; lands and buildings, $3,000; laundry, $800; fuel and light, $3,500; telephone, $700; radio, $1,113; gas and oil, $800; incidentals, $3,500; stationery, $200; fire alarm system, $500; furniture and fixtures, $300; uniform allowance, $3,100, and fire school, $500.

Bryan requested a 10 per cent increase for all members of the department, replacement of the 22-year-old East End pumper with a new 750-gallon unit, and the re-

In Courthouse Dispute

Reinstatement To Job Reversed By Judge Sharp

LISBON — A September ruling by the Ohio Personnel Board of Review, reinstating a Democratic Courthouse worker to her job after she had been fired by Republicans a year and a half before, was reversed by Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp Monday.

Judge Sharp's 26-page ruling affirms a second dismissal by Columbiana County commissioners on grounds that Mrs. Jane Case of Columbiana violated her provisional Civil Service status by engaging in political activity.

Mrs. Case was one of four Democratic workers released by commissioners Feb. 1, 1961, when Republicans gained the majority membership of the board.

The Democrat workers won an appeal to the Ohio Supreme Court, which ruled they have provisional Civil Service status, and three of them were re-instated. The fourth job was abolished in 1961.

When Mrs. Case returned to work in the summer of 1962, the commissioners again released her, claiming she had been in political activities contrary to regulations governing her status.

Mrs. Case appealed the decision, won a ruling for reinstatement from the state board, and the commissioners then voted to change the dismissal to a 120-day suspension, citing her "sincere, hard-working and deligent" record.

No Quick Decision Due

School Board Again Airs Fate Of Central Building

The cost of constructing a new high school plant may be prohibitive for the community, two members of the Board of Education suggested Monday night as the problem of Central School was discussed in a brief caucus following the regular meeting.

The board indicated no quick decision will be reached on whether to replace Central with a new laboratory building or construct a new school in another location.

It met informally to air opinions on the recommendation of the Citizens Committee for Better Schools that a new school be constructed. The committee made its recommendation last spring following a series of seminars on school finances at which the problem of Central School arose.

James Lowe, president, and James Moss, vice president, said they would prefer to see a new school but were apprehensive about the cost to the taxpayers.

The estimate of a cost on a new school is $3 million or more while the cost of a laboratory building has been estimated at roughly $1½ million.

Three other board members — C. Walter Ashbaugh, Mrs. Nessie R. Dunlop and Harry D. McConville — said they had been approached by merchants who expressed fears that erection of a new school in another location would detract from the downtown area.

Supt. Ralph W. Betts pointed

Funds To Be Delayed

Loan Necessary For School Pay

With no funds anticipated until late February or early March, the Board of Education Monday night authorized borrowing money to meet February payrolls and pay some outstanding obligations.

Miss Kathryn Liebschner, clerk-treasurer, estimated approximately $150,000 may be needed although she said she will confer with C. Walter Ashbaugh and Mrs. Nessie R. Dunlop, members of the finance committee, before seeking the funds.

MISS Liebschner said the total payroll for a month is about $128,000 and about $25,000 is needed to meet outstanding bills, chiefly for local businesses.

She reported state foundation funds are not due until Feb. 20 and the county real estate tax collection has been set back until March. At present, the board has only $10,429 in all funds.

The board also authorized Supt. Ralph W. Betts to seek bids on a new 66-passenger bus to replace a nine-year-old vehicle.

Betts explained the board normally has been replacing its three buses every 10 years but said several repairs were needed on the present bus last fall before it was passed by the State Highway Patrol in the annual inspection.

He told the board the State Department of Education paid slightly more than $5,000 towards the cost of a bus purchased about a year ago.

Questioned by James Lowe, president, on whether the board should get out of the bus business, Betts said he believes it necessary for the board to own some buses, citing frequent field trips taken by students and other needs.

The cost of chartering buses for the various trips might be prohibitive, he said.

At present, the board operates three buses and contracts for 10 others with the Snyder Transportation Co.

THE BOARD also approved the appointment of Carol Vermillion, a graduate of the high school and Kent State University, as girls' physical education teacher in the high school.

Betts said he was happy to fill the post which has been vacant for a year and a half.

The board authorized the rental of Memorial Auditorium to the Lions Club on Feb. 9 for a wrestling show at a fee of $60.

It also approved the rental of Westgate auditorium to Unit 15 of the Ohio Cosmetologists Association for a rehearsal on Feb. 12 and a style show on Feb. 13. The fees will be $15 for the rehearsal and $50 for the show.

It granted the Free Methodist churches of East Liverpool permission to use Westgate auditorium March 25 for a choral concert. The fee will be $20.

THE BOARD delayed a decision on rental of an area south of Westgate School to the Blue and White Nonpareil Club the week of May 13 for a carnival.

The board has talked for several years of converting the tract to a junior high football practice field. If the work is to be undertaken this year, the tract needs to be leveled, top soil added and grass seed planted, the superintendent said.

Following a discussion of the needs, the board authorized Betts to contact Garnet Burgess on the amount of top soil needed and the best time for planting. He then is to contact James Moss, Harry D. McConville and Mrs. Dunlop, members of the building committee, on the rental request.

The board also approved an appropriation of $600 as a service fund to meet members' expenses on board - authorized business. It is permitted to appropriate 20 cents per child or $1,000 which ever is greater.

THE ENROLLMENT as of Monday was 5,591, she said. The expenses last year totaled $517.

It also agreed to study fees charged the Church Basketball League for practice sessions in school gyms after Moss said he had been questioned on why the church groups were charged $3 per practice and the Little Potters League was allowed free use.

Lowe also appointed standing committees for the year. They are Ashbaugh and Mrs. Dunlop, finance; Moss, McConville and Mrs. Dunlop, buildings, and McConville and Moss, athletic board.

McDaniel Will Attend 15-Week Police Class

Acting on a suggestion from Chief Americo J. Radeschi, Council agreed Monday night to provide $500 to pay the tuition and other expenses of Lt. William E. McDaniel in attending a 15-week police course at Western Reserve University in Cleveland, opening Feb. 4.

The course will cover crime prevention and investigation and many other phases of law enforcement, the chief said in a letter to Council. The class will meet two days weekly for 15 weeks, he added.

In order to expedite the request, the finance committee acted upon the request immediately and recommended approval to Council. Council then approved the expenditure unanimously, with confirming legislation to be presented at the meeting Feb. 4.

Officers Probe Thefts Of Car Transmissions

The $300 transmission was removed from a car owned by Terry Ceramella while it was in the Hart Motor Car Co. garage of Main St.

Police Chief Roy Lewis said the transmission of a 1955 auto owned by Mrs. June Earl of E. Main St. was stolen while it was parked near her home in December.

Bonds of John Radsick of Canton, indicted for operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, and Kenneth Kinser, 31, of Salem, indicted for forgery, failed to appear. Judge Sharp ordered prosecutor Brokaw to take steps to have their bonds forfeited.

Judge Sharp overruled the motion to quash the indictment against William Garrett Vanzee II, 23, of San Anselmo, Calif., charged with possession of burglary tools, but set Feb. 10 at 10 a. m. for a hearing on a demurrer to surpress evidence for illegal search and seizure of burglary tools.

Judge Sharp will begin trials Feb. 4.

Ruling Eyed On Street Aid

County commissioners told a delegation of East Liverpool city officials Monday afternoon at Lisbon that they must obtain an opinion from Prosecutor G. William Brokaw, their legal advisor, before deciding whether to participate in a joint project for improvement of Shadyside Ave.

The commissioners listed to the local delegation's request for financial aid in widening and straightening the thoroughfare, which begins inside the city limits at W. 8th St. and runs upgrade to Campground Rd. But the commissioners declined to commit themselves to a financial pledge without a ruling from Brokaw.

Shadyside Ave. residents appeared before Council twice late in 1962, asking a project to widen the street and eliminate some of the curves. They said the street is dangerous, particularly in slippery weather. Council withheld an answer on the city's participation pending the conference with the commissioners.

Councilmen said Clerk Lawrence Zollinger will write a letter of formal request for aid to the commissioners, clearing the way for the prosecutor's opinion to be sought.

The delegation was comprised of Mayor Bert H. Goodballet, Safety-Service Director Robert Owen, Councilmen George E. Willshaw, Robert W. Sample Jr., S. James Welch and Frank Duffy, Engineer George Bloomgren and Zollinger.

Negley Property Inspections Set

NEGLEY — Plans for inspection of all property in Middleton Township as a program to reduce fire insurance rates have been announced by Fire Chief Don Mahon.

Chief Mahon said the department has installed a reservoir at the fire station as part of the plan to cut rates, and also has a telephone alarm system which notifies the 30 members of the department simultaneously of a phoned alarm.

The department last year obtained some $5,000 in new equipment, he added.

The fire loss in 1962 totaled $22,900, the largest loss being a $15,000 fire at the Harry Williams barn on the Clarkson-Rogers Rd. in December.

Firemen handled 46 emergency calls, Mahon said.

Equipment Eyed To Handle Snow

Council asked its finance committee Monday night to investigate purchase of equipment that would allow a new concept of snow removal in East Liverpool — a rotary plow capable of handling as much as 800 tons an hour.

The request was made after Council conferred in caucus session with representatives of the Tenos Brothers Equipment Co. of Pittsburgh, distributor of self-powered rotary plows built to be mounted on existing city equipment such as high-lifts and graders.

KNOWN AS A Snow-Flyr, the equipment is made in varying sizes and power combinations and can be used to blow snow off streets and highways onto berms or for loading trucks, the representatives explained.

A 36-horsepower model can handle 420 tons per hour and a larger model, costing approximately 25 per cent more, is capable of handling 800 tons per hour, Council was told. The larger model cuts a wider swath and is powered by a 68-horsepower motor.

The prices range from approximately $3,000 to about $4,000, Council was told. The machinery is capable of loading 50 trucks per hour, speeding up snow removal in the business district after a heavy storm, the members were told.

Council watched a 20 - minute color film showing the equipment at work clearing streets, airports and baseball parks and loading big windrows of ice and snow. The company claims the machine will handle ice as readily as snow.

Safety-Service Director Robert Owen, citing snow-removal equipment already purchased with income tax funds, said the rotary plows would allow the city "to undertake a full-scale snow removal program."

HE ASKED Council to consider the purchase. Council then approved a motion by Councilman Edward Massey asking the finance committee to investigate. Street Supt. W. M. Laughlin and Asst. Supt. Ed Bowersock also attended the session.

In other business, Council approved a motion by Massey authorizing Mayor Bert H. Goodballet to ask the State Highway Department to send a representative here to make an on-the-spot investigation of the Lisbon St. Hill and discuss a city proposal for widening the busy thoroughfare and eliminating curves.

Massey, who proposed the project several weeks ago, said he has conferred with the mayor and Engineer George Bloomgren.

"I THINK WE should start preparations to see what can be done and begin planning," Massey said. "In major improvements of state routes, the state will pay 70 per cent of the overall cost. I think the city should find what curves can be eliminated and how wide the street can be made."

Massey also suggested that the finance committee set aside $10,000 in the annual appropriation ordinance to pay the city's share of a new program for low - cost street surfacing. The program last year "was very successful" and should be continued in 1963 to allow surfacing of more secondary streets, he said.

Persons residing on streets that need improvement should begin circulation of petitions soon and file them in the director's office so the program can get under way in early summer, Massey added.

He also proposed that the city pay 50 per cent of the cost of applying a second treatment on the streets which were surfaced last summer. The city paid 50 per cent of the cost of the original program, also assuming the cost of intersections. Its outlay was more than $20,000.

COUNCIL approved a recommendation from Councilman George E. Willshaw, finance committee chairman, calling for expenditure of $2,200 from income tax revenue for improvement of a Little League baseball field at Thompson Park—particularly for erection of a new fence and backstop.

Willshaw pointed out a Little League official asked Council several weeks ago to co-operate in the improvement. Willshaw said the money will be sufficient "to put the field in good shape."

Council approved a motion to consider legislation at its meeting Feb. 4 calling for vacating of unused streets adjoining the property of the Milliron Co. along the riverfront.

In a petition signed by Mrs. Margaret Boch, the owner, the company asked Council to vacate 1st St. between Union St. and Washington St. and Cherry Alley from the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. right-of-way to the Ohio River.

COUNCIL conferred in caucus on the question with Atty. Donald D. Shay, counsel for the company, and its representatives. Later a formal petition for the action was read on the floor.

Atty. Shay said the streets are unused and never have been improved. He said the company expects to use the ground for future expansion.

As a companion measure, Council agreed to consider legislation to vacate streets adjoining the property of the Parsons Coal Co. and Pearl China Co. a short distance to the west. Willshaw pointed out the request has been before Council for months and no action had been taken.

The motion for presentation of the two pieces of legislation was approved unanimously.

Acting on a motion by Councilman Kenneth C. Berg, chairman of the street committee, Council approved installation of a new street light in Marshall's Bottom and another in the 700 block of Lincoln Ave. Councilman Floyd Murray said he has been asked when new lights, already authorized, will be installed on Erie St. Owen said the order will go to the Ohio Power Co. today.

INSTALLATION of three stop signs also was authorized on Berg's motion. It calls for signs at the intersections of Vine St. and Blakely St. with Thompson Ave. and at Drury Ln. and East Alley.

Two letters were filed from property - owners, objecting to contemplated special assessments in the business district to pay for a new street lighting system. The letters were filed by Harry Altman, as owner of property at 5th and Market Sts., and by various persons with interests in the Trenle Estate.

Willshaw pointed out the lighting plan was sponsored in a petition circulated by a committee of the East Liverpool Merchants Association.

Council referred to the ordinance committee a letter from the Board of Public Utilities asking for authority to purchase 200 tons of sand and cement mixture to continue a program launched last year for repair of reservoir walls. The letter was signed by W. O. Schneider, chairman of the board.

THE CLAIMS committee was given a $26 bill from Ralph Unger of Lisbon St., who said sewage backed into his home. Massey commented that the claim was the direct result of failure of the sewage sump pump on Lisbon St. at Fisher Park. He said he has asked the sewage department to recommend ways of making the pump system "fool proof."

The same committee was given a $90 claim from Arthur Geer of W. 3rd St., who said the paint on his house was damaged and windows were broken by ashes scattered by a city truck.

After a long discussion, Council approved, 6-1, a motion by Willshaw to transfer $1,000 to the fire department for periodic replacement of safety equipment for firemen, including helmets, hats, coats and trousers. He said some of the firemen's so-called "bunker equipment" is worn badly and in need of replacement.

Councilman Frank Duffy objected, asserting that the city "must stop somewhere" in its financial outlays.

"I HAVE no objection to buying these things if the firemen need them, but we have to stop somewhere," Duffy said. "We granted a wage increase and I'm in favor of the insurance program for employes which Council has been considering. But I'm not in favor of any additional expense now."

Councilman Robert W. Sample Jr. replied that the equipment "is for safety purposes, not for their personal comfort."

"This wasn't done on the spur of the moment," Willshaw said. "This equipment should last 15 to 20 years. It's meant to save lives."

Agreeing with Willshaw, Massey declared he has "seen firemen in action and I realize the need for this equipment."

At present, if a fireman's helmet is broken he has to replace it himself, Massey said.

MURRAY SAID he can see the need for the equipment, but asked why the firemen cannot buy it out of a $100-a-year uniform allowance.

"If a policeman's uniform is torn, do we replace it?" he asked. He indicated he would move for legislation for police equipment, but President Charles Edwards reminded a motion was on the floor.

Massey replied firemen are required to have more equipment than most employes, including dress uniforms, fatigues and special fire - fighting gear.

Duffy reiterated his objection and added: "If something happens to the income tax, what will you do for money?"

Then the motion was put to a vote, resulting in the 6-1 split, with Duffy dissenting.

As part of his report, Willshaw said the committee is continuing investigation of a recommendation for a pay raise for adult school crossing guards. Several other individual cases are being considered and a general report will be filed, he said.

COUNCIL APPROVED a resolution accepting a deed from the Ohio Power Co. for a tract of about one acre adjoining the city water department plant in Klondyke.

The utility obtained the land from the city for its new substation, which was erected last year. The deed transfers back to the city the land that was not needed for the project.

Council also enacted a resolution to pay three claims against the city. They are: Davis Whittington, 712 Cadmus St., $14 for damage when his car hit a hole on Boyce St.; Eugene Mullen, 5 West Dr., Midland, $13 for damage to his auto Dec. 4 when a trash can fell off a city incinerator department truck, and Joseph Brasco, 1280 Ohio Ave., Midland, $135 for damage to his car when it was bumped by a city-owned truck on Oak St.

Murray told Owen the Ohio Valley Gas Co. recently drilled holes in the pavement on Harvey Ave., then inserted pieces of pipe which project an inch or so above the surface. He said motorists have complained. He asked Owen to investigate.

MURRAY ALSO asked Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper to take steps for removal of a barbed wire fence which he said was erected recently near Little England, cutting off an alternate route out of the little riverfront community.

State law provides barbed wire cannot be erected inside the city without approval of the abutting property owners, he said. As the city owns abutting property, it can ask removal of the wire, he said.

Duffy joined in the request for removal of the wire, terming it "a bad situation." Little England residents complained of the fence at the session Jan. 7.

Berg told Owen Sophia St. residents have asked removal of an accumulation of ice. Owen said the situation will be taken care of permanently when weather permits by installing a gutter to catch water flowing onto the street from a hillside spring.

In reply to a question from Councilman S. James Welch, Owen said he has not received an answer from a letter to the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. complaining about a gutter along the Pennsy's property near Virginia Ave.

Welch said he talked Tuesday with Bloomgren about the impending Gardendale sanitary sewer project. Indications are that the scope will be widened by adding more properties but the project should be ready for additional Council action soon, he said.

Joseph Burcham, 427 W. 4th St., appeared before Council personally, complaining he was "insulted" by D. G. Wilkinson, head of the city income tax office.

Burcham has filed numerous complaints with Council on the tax. He declared last night that the office declined to accept his tax payment without presentation of a federal income tax withholding statement as proof of earnings.

The meeting opened with invocation by Edwards.

Board Advised Of Ruling

School Custodians Lose Civil Service Protection

Twenty - eight custodians employed in East Liverpool schools no longer are covered by Civil Service status, the Board of Education was advised Monday night.

An Ohio Supreme Court decision last December declared unconstitutional a 49-year-old law which authorized Civil Service status for non - certificated personnel, Supt. Ralph W. Betts told the board. Only custodians had been classified here.

There will be some advantages and possible disadvantages to the ruling, the superintendent said.

The board will have a little more leeway in selecting custodians rather than being limited to the three men who scored the top grades in a Civil Service examination, he said.

In some cases, a man who has performed adequately as a substitute could not be hired when a vacancy occurred becuase he was not among the top three on the eligibility list, the superintendent explained.

Replying to James Lowe's comment that the ruling "was a step in the wrong direction" because the test offered a record of the man's ability, Betts said. "I'm not sure the test showed the true ability of a man to be a good custodian." In some cases, the board could pick from good men while in others those with the top grades were indifferent, he said.

Betts said he expects to meet with custodians to clarify how this ruling will affect the superintendent of buildings and grounds.

The board worked out an agreement seven years ago with the custodians providing any vacancy would be filled on a basis of seniority among the present staff.

When the board chose George Shuffert as superintendent of buildings and grounds, other custodians argued the post should have been filled on a seniority basis and raised the question with the board and the local commission, Betts explained.

The commission at that time recommended in the future that it give a promotional examination open to any man on the staff and certify only the man with the highest grade for the appointment. The same procedure is followed in filling vacancies among police and fire department "brass."

The Supreme Court ruling has eliminated the necessity for the promotional exam and is the reason he wants to clarify the point with the custodians, Betts said.

Betts said he is not fully aware of the facts in the decision but said he understands the case started in Northwestern Ohio where a school board objected to Civil Service status for non-certificated employes and took the case to court.

Bill Payment Ordered By Franklin Trustees

Trustees approved continuing hauling of slag for stockpiling and use on roads.

Next meeting is Feb. 4. Trustees Paul Dowdell and Forrest Thompson and their wives and trustee John Wargo and Miss Coletta Kelley, clerk, will attend the Ohio Trustees and Clerks Association meeting at Columbus later this week.

Speeder Fined $5

LISBON — Alfred F. Bucher, 24, of East Rochester was fined $5 and costs on a speeding charge Monday by County Judge James L. MacDonald and Kenneth Zapotosky, 21, of Cleveland, Robert A. Berry, 21, of Lorain and James R. Twigger, 38, of Houston, Pa., forfeited $15 appearance bonds on a similar charge filed by the State Highway Patrol.

Wellsville Officer Receives Suspension

Chief Hephner said Heiney has been suspended for seven days, effective Thursday. He will return to the force Jan. 31. The suspension results in an automatic loss of pay for the period.

Chief Hephner said the suspension was made for "neglect of duty" and unnecessary time spent out of the cruiser. He did not cite any specific instance. The chief said the suspension is strictly a disciplinary action. Heiney works the daylight shift on Mondays and the remainder of his work week is on the 4 p. m.-to-midnight turn.

Wellsville Officer Receives Suspension

Chief Hephner said Heiney has been suspended for seven days, effective Thursday. He will return to the force Jan. 31. The suspension results in an automatic loss of pay for the period.

Chief Hephner said the suspension was made for "neglect of duty" and unnecessary time spent out of the cruiser. He did not cite any specific instance. The chief said the suspension is strictly a disciplinary action. Heiney works the daylight shift on Mondays and the remainder of his work week is on the 4 p. m.-to-midnight turn.

Discontent Will Be Epidemic

One of the eloquent passages in President Kennedy's remarks to Congress last week concerned mutual assistance—the foreign aid program.

"The continued progress of the mutual assistance program," he said, "requires a persistent discontent with present performance. We have been reorganizing the program to make it a more effective, efficient instrument—and that process will continue this year."

President Kennedy will not be able to quarantine "persistent discontent" in official circles. It is running through the American public like an epidemic.

It is an article of faith among spenders that foreign aid should not be touched by the rude hands of skeptics nor even scrutinized by prying eyes. As President Kennedy said in his latest remarks, his predecessors have stood staunchly for foreign aid and he proposes to stand for it in the same way.

The fact is, nevertheless that during each preceding administration, going back to the Roosevelt administration, Yankee skepticism has been asserting itself a little more stoutly each year. This is the year when the ax may fall heavily on what skeptics speak of as "Uncle Sugar's great giveaway."

THE 88TH CONGRESS shapes up as more hostile to the giveaway principle than any since the end of World War II. Since 1946, $100 billion has gone into foreign aid.

No one questions that the United States has had a rich return on its money. It could not have afforded to let economic inadequacy pave the way for Communist takeovers in countries with active and knowledgeable Communist parties.

Neither could it have afforded to let other countries drift into economic and political chaos, getting ready for eventual intrusion of Communist agents. The United States has been defending capitalism in one of the most effectual ways possible—with capital.

But the issue is whether foreign aid must be carried on to suit spenders, or whether savers are going to have a hand in it. Last year's program suffered deeper cuts than any previous program; 108 members of the House of Representatives voted to drop it altogether. Key legislators are reported to have warned President Kennedy that even heavier cuts are in prospect in 1963.

He is asking for nearly $5 billion. Opposition to the request will grow out of doubts about the effectiveness of continued foreign aid in furthering U.S. objectives.

MORE AND MORE Americans have come to believe that the eagerness with which foreigners accept U.S. money has no direct bearing on acceptance of an obligation to side with the United States.

The fight that broke out in Congress last year was vigorous. Investigators had discovered unconscionable wastes of money. Foreign aid administration had been so spotty a major reform was ordered and is now being undertaken.

It is not the principle that is being opposed but practices that cannot be condoned. Unless the Kennedy administration can demonstrate that bad practices have been eliminated, 1963 should be the beginning of a wholesale cutoff for foreign aid spending.

Even if it can satisfy all critics, the administration should set a cutoff date for foreign aid, to shrink the larger deficit it proposes to incur in the process of giving tax relief at home.

Does it make sense to give money away abroad at a $5-billion-a-year clip when there isn't enough to pay the tab at home?

20 Million Missing Voters

If it may be assumed that Democratic National Committee Chairman John M. Bailey was quoting political scripture when he said 20 million potential voters aren't registered, it's possible to go on from there and wonder where he picked up the information that most of them are Democrats.

This is a head-on collision with a long-standing Republican credo that most of the people who don't vote in this country, whether because they're not registered or not interested, are Republicans.

Democrats may question this credo too.

To hear some of them talk about what happens on Election Day, this is still a country wherein citizens with "carriages" are driven to the polls when it rains and therefore a rainy day keeps away Democratic voters.

Of if you prefer to hear Republicans talk about what happens on Election Day, their candidates get licked when their campaigns have gone well and they look like winners. This makes Republican voters over-confident—the way Republicans figure it out. They stay away from the polls and let the Democrats win.

If there are 20 million potential voters who aren't registered and if most of these are Democrats, which is Chairman Bailey's story, it becomes a matter of the liveliest interest to find out how he knows. American citizens are neither Democrats nor Republicans until they declare themselves.

Their political identity is not tattoed on them. It is not something they are born with, like U.S. citizenship. It is something they profess to be as a conscious and deliberate avowal for the sake of carrying on a two-party system of politics.

We know avowed Democrats who have more in common with avowed Republicans than with most other avowed Democrats. We know some avowed Republicans who would be at home in Democratic Mississippi and even a few who would be at home in the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education —COPE.

But we doubt if we could size up 20 million unregistered citizens and tell whether more were Democrats than Republicans. Chairman Bailey must have been carried away by partisan enthusiasm when he professed to know the unknowable last Friday night at the Democratic party's million-dollar blast in Washington.

Hugh Gaitskell Knew The Territory

More than any other individual of his time and political identify, Britain's Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell knew how to win the friendship of Americans.

He did not consider it part of his duty, as many British Laborites have, to berate and belittle the United States for not sharing the zaniness of extremists among his followers.

He stood for moderation and fair judgment inside the Labor party, and he stood for this against a spectrum of dissent that ranged from "Ban the Bomb" extremists to reactionaries in British labor who tried to crowd out the Colonel Blimps of the extreme right.

Whenever he spoke in this country, he was a personable and persuasive reminder that friendship with Britain grows out of a blood relationship, not a political arrangement. He was knowledgeable about American problems. He had confidence in U.S. intentions about nuclear force; he did not want to "Ban the Bomb" and went out of his way to remind extremists that the United States had come to Britain's resuce twice in a generation.

At the age of 56, Hugh Gaitskell showed promise of being a voice of reason for many years to come. The Labor party needed him. The United Kingdom needed him. The United States needed him, and the Free World needed him. He knew the territory.

Whither Ruth?

By Truman Twill

There is a word "ruth" that can be traced to the 12th century in English literature. All of us can afford to spare a few minutes to understand what happened to it. It meant the quality of being compassionate. People used to have ruth, to show ruth. They had mercy. They showed mercy.

Except for the proper name —Ruth—the word has passed out of the language. Yet for hundreds of years it was in common use. All that's left of it now is "ruthless," also "ruthlessness."

This describes an attitude so common the words "ruthless" and "ruthlessness" assail our eyes and ears many times each week. Yet, "ruthful," "Ruthfully" and "ruthfulness are never heard.

Only "ruthless" and "ruthlessness" are with us now.

They mean someone or something has been totally devoid of compassion, that there has been a complete absence of pity and mercy. In nearly every instance they refer to two pre-emptive fields of human endeavor in our time—business and politics.

Ruthlessness apparently is common behavior among businessmen and politics, and there is this significant thing about it that it is justified on the face of the matter by the imperatives of survival.

The ruthless businessman is only protecting his enterprise by showing no compassion to his competitor or, as often happens in this era of automation, his associates. He is saving his own neck.

The ruthless politician is saving his neck by following the Golden Rule upside down. He is doing unto others what he feels pretty darned sure others would do unto him if they had their feet on his neck.

It is as if all the things about compassionate behavior that children learned at their mothers knees had been set aside by the exigencies of a situation in which kindness and consideration were evidence of weakness and inefficiency.

You wonder where this is heading and where the next stops may be.

Will it be surprising if some day in the not too distant future all nonproductive members of households are sent away to some distant barracks to spend their remaining days?

Is the time at hand when every Mister Big who reaches the top will get rid of his predecessor's "team" and bring in all his own people?

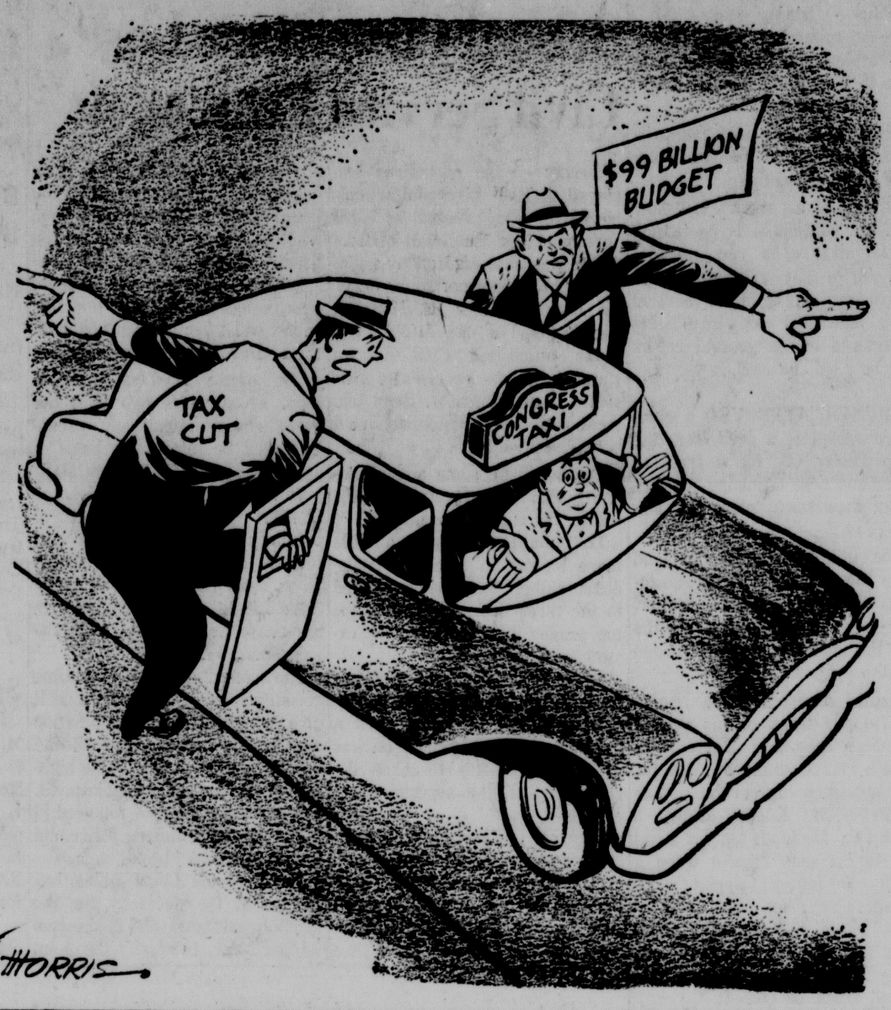

Has efficiency been placed so high in the scale of values in the 20th century that cost accountants and engineers will rank above the preceptors of Christian behavior in a country whose patriots boast it was founded on Christian belief?

Will it be a stronger tribute to the qualities of a rising star in the politico-business firmament to point to his "ruthlessness" than to qualities of mercy he may have shown in some unguarded moment he hopes will not be recorded in his dossier?

There is that word "ruth" which has passed out of the language. No one uses it any more, and you wonder why it became archaic and obsolete.

All of us can afford a few minutes to wonder what happened. What made our world turn ruthless?

This Ought To Be Interesting!

Labor Aims At Shorter Work Year

By Victor Riesel

Whoever wrote the attack on the shorter work week into President Kennedy's State of the Union message is not up on the state of the unions' newest national campaign. Labor's hottest drive is for a shorter work year.

Victor Riesel

Labor leaders believe such a successful drive will have real impact — by making it an absolute necessity for industry to hire tens of thousands of new workers in big blocs. They feel the shorter work week of 35 hours will take too long, be too gradual a process, and not create as many jobs as was once believed inside labor.

They're not abandoning the 35-hour campaign by any means. But the romance is in the shorter work year.

ACTUALLY it has already started in "steel." The big Steelworkers' Union will begin this summer to make it universal in the big steel industry.

It's not generally known, but just about a year ago, the then secretary of labor, Arthur Goldberg, met privately with silver-haired, pipe-smoking steel union chief Dave McDonald. That was some months before the famous April steel contract was signed.

McDonald had been pushing for a shorter work week. Goldberg advised McDonald to junk the demand. The President was opposed to it, said Goldberg.

Furthermore, it could not be won in the steel industry then. Take other gains first and then push for more during the reopening of the contract in '63, McDonald was counseled.

The rest is history — some of it quite turbulent. But long after the steel war, in and out of the White House, was forgotten, the union signed a fascinating contract with the big can companies.

One section called for a sabbatical of 13 weeks. Some refer to it as an extended vacation. Others dub it the shorter work year.

The point is to take thousands of workers out of the plants regularly to make room for thousands laid off or seeking hire.

UNDER THE FORMULA, a steel worker with 15 years service gets 13 weeks vacation every five years.

Later the machinists signed the same type of contract.

Thus for thousands of workers there is a nine-month year coming up every five years.

There are other short year formulas. Joe Curran's National Maritime Union contract calls for a 60-day vacation for all sailors after one year with a company.

Some of the other seagoing unions have a regular three months vacation each year. For this they forego overtime.

In New York, brewery workers who belong to the Teamsters Brotherhood have a "vacation bank" system. After five years service with a beer producer, the men get from four to seven weeks holiday.

They can "bank" their extra weeks. If they don't take it one year, they can tack it on to their vacations any time in the future. Or they can pile them up and take the cash on retirement.

BUT EVEN where there is no unusual formula the work year has shrunk. A decade ago, only one out of every 25 contracts mentioned a fourth week of vacation.

The big vacation push has not by any means neutralized the drive for the 35-hour week, regardless of what the President has privately and publicly told labor leaders and the nation.

This campaign is being coordinated by Lane Kirkland, a talented, though anonymous, executive assistant to George Meany. This means it is being pushed by Mr. Meany's inner sanctum.

There have been seminars, special shorter work week units, and demonstrations for the 35-hour week.

Soon a bill will be introduced in Congress for a 32-hour week.

How seriously this is being taken can be seen in the plans of one of labor's own intellectuals, Leo Perlis, head of the AFL-CIO Community Service Activities Committee.

PERLIS' GROUP has scheduled a five-day national "Conference on the Shorter Work Week and the Constructive Use of Leisure Time," beginning on March 31, at the Hotel Commodore in New York. Speakers will include Laurance Rockefeller, brother of the governor, and August Heckscher, who is President Kennedy's secretary of culture.

When Perlis speaks of this parley as a working conference, he means it. There will be 12 steady workshops going from 9 a.m. to midnight each day.

There is an urgency felt by Perlis and his colleagues. They are eager to be prepared to teach millions of union members how to spend their leisure time "when we have the 35-hour week, which certainly is not far off," says Perlis.

The conference will go into a new theory of a new leisure class. Perlis is convinced he'll soon be dealing with millions working a four-day week and a nine or ten-month work year.

This is the biggest news of our era on the home front. Just wait and see.

Paradise Lost

It's becoming harder and harder to find an old - fashioned island "paradise" in the South Seas.

Two global wars and spreading airlines have brought the world and its ways to most of the palm-fringed volcanic isles and coral atolls scattered over the South Pacific.

The urge to modernize even has reached the remote and little-known French dependency of Wallis and Futuna. There, some 10,000 easy - going Polynesians, long content to fish a little and to gather the fruits of tropical abundance, are beginning to face the challenge of political and economic change.

Wallis and Futuna are two small island groups separated from each other by 120 miles of water.

Their position, northeast of the Fijis and west of Samoa, places them about as far from France as it is possible to be.

Yet the islanders voted overwhelmingly, in a 1959 referendum, to join the French Community then being organized under the new constitution of the Fifth Republic.

A Look At JFK

By David Lawrence

His Two Years In Office Are Reviewed

Since it was just two years ago when President Kennedy was inaugurated, this is perhaps the time for an exuberant Review or an agonizing reappraisal or a disinterested and dispassionate look at his administration. The category will be judged by the reader for however impartial the critic tries to be, the dyed-in-the-wool supporters of the administration will cry out that he must be a Republican or a "tool of big business" or mentally unstable if he so much as suggests that maybe Mr. Kennedy isn't just the most successful president and bravest leader we have had since George Washington.

David Lawrence

In writing from the national capital about the last nine presidents, this correspondent has never allowed any personal feelings to influence his presentation of the facts or his analysis of the impact of those facts on public affairs.

It so happens that every one of the nine presidents has been a congenial, friendly, likable and well-meaning individual.

If news interpretation were guided solely by personal feelings, this writer would have constantly been singing the praises of every one of these presidents, instead of presenting necessary criticism of public policies.

NEWS WRITING and candid interpretation are a form of public reponsibility to a constituency—the people—and not to a president or either political party.

Presidents come and go, but the country must be apprised constantly of the truth about its national and international problems, irrespective of whether the feelings of the man in the White House might for the moment be hurt by criticisms in the press.

What kind of president is Mr. Kennedy really making? Detailed reviews would seem to be superfluous, as the record has been presented and analyzed from day to day.

The most salient point to be mentioned is that the image the President himself has been giving the country by his skillful publicity during the past two years is somewhat different from what it really appears to be here in Washington.

Mr. Kennedy has been handicapped in his first two years by engaging in the same kind of experimentalism that some of his predecessors have attempted in their first term. He has brought to his side advisers inexperienced and untrained in government, and has failed to come to grips with the problem of organizing the White House itself.

It's a sorry system which permits a president to be surrounded by so many academic persons who have no direct responsibility to the people through the confirmation process in the senate.

The cabine in the last two years has been shunted to one side. Who is really secretary of state now, and who actually makes foreign policy currently? Who is really determining our economic and fiscal policies?

Mr. Kennedy tries to make all the final decisions himself, but it is on the basis of what his inexperienced advisers tell him, and he is, of course, influenced to no small extent by his political instincts.

MR. KENNEDY probably will be a much better president in the next two years than in his first two for he presumably will have learned many of the lessons so essential to an effective administration.

He has an agile mind, a remarkably good memory, a pleasing personality and, above all, a certain inner restraint against radicalism that bears him in good stead.

Much is being said about Mr. Kennedy's prowess as a politician and how skillfully he dispenses political favors.

He knows the way to organize a campaign and to build a machine but it isn't apparent yet whether he can sense and anticipate those policital trends and overwhelming currents of discontent, a disregard of which has caused so many election defeats in the past.

Before Mr. Kennedy was elected, it was averred by opponents that he would not be able to grapple with national and international problems because he was youthful and inexperienced. They were right about the inexperience, but they were wrong in evaluating his youthfulness as a handicap. Mr. Kennedy has boundless energy, and this is a big asset to a president of the United States, who must work long hours and travel about a great deal both in this country and abroad.

Mr. Kennedy has learned a lot in two years but Congress and, especially, the opposition party have failed the nation.

The country has not learned enough about the critical condition of the government's finances or the truth about our military advice before the fiasco in Cuba in 1961.

THE POWER to investigate and expose the way in which special privileges are given to favored groups has not been fully exercised. Nor have the economic dangers of the labor-union monopoly been faced by the White House or Congress.

These barriers can restrain the forward march of American business and prevent the creation of jobs for the millions who annually come of working age.

We can extol the Peace Corps idea, for instance, and talk of retraining the unemployed and of other political panaceas but until President Kennedy becomes convinced that he must assume the leadership in removing the shackles now imposed on our economic progress by the government itself—through its inaction in certain fields and over regulation in others—there can be less hope of attaining the goals so glowingly promised by the administration.

Part Of Bigger Problem

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

The Russians make a concession, at last. The United States says it's not enough. That's it, as of today. Still no agreement on banning nuclear tests after years of talking.

But just banning nuclear tests is only part of the bigger problem: general disarmament. Agreement on that looks even more dim and far off after 15 years of talking.

Basic to both agreements is the American requirement to prevent cheating: that outside inspectors be allowed inside the countries making the agreement. This is what the Russians wouldn't buy until now, and now only a little bit.

President Kennedy indicated only last week—in his budget and State of the Union messages to Congress—how remote any hope of disarmament seems although he didn't say it in so many words.

1. He said "until the world can develop a reliable system of international security, the free people have no choice but to keep their arms ready." The very phrase — "international security" —is so vague it can hardly be defined.

2. He followed this up by asking Congress to vote even more money next year than this for defense—$55.4 billion. That's more than half the total expense of running the government.

There was a time when the United States insisted any nuclear test ban agreement must permit outside inspectors inside Russia and this country to prevent cheating on tests both in the atmosphere and underground.

Now the United States is more confident it can detect atmospheric tests anywhere. It still insists on the on-site inspection to prevent trickery on underground tests.

The reasoning here is that what might seem, far off, like an earthquake might, if checked close up, prove to have been a test underground.

There was also a time when the Russians flatly rejected any inspection system inside the Soviet Union as a spy system. In 1960 the Russians softened a bit.

They agreed three on-site inspections—in a test ban agreement, not in any disarmament agreement—might be acceptable. They switched and still rejected inspection. They argued there were enough mechanical devices to do the checking.

Then, beginning last December, Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev began exchanging letters. The White House didn't let this be known until over the past weekend. It turned out, the Russians had made another switch.

Now Khrushchev expressed willingness to permit on-site inspections in Russia, but no more than three a year. Kennedy told the Russian he was encouraged. But there was a hitch.

Only "ruthless" and "ruthlessness" are with us now.

They mean someone or something has been totally devoid of compassion, that there has been a complete absence of pity and mercy. In nearly every instance they refer to two pre-emptive fields of human endeavor in our time—business and politics.

Ruthlessness apparently is common behavior among businessmen and politics, and there is this significant thing about it that it is justified on the face of the matter by the imperatives of survival.

The ruthless businessman is only protecting his enterprise by showing no compassion to his competitor or, as often happens in this era of automation, his associates. He is saving his own neck.

The ruthless politician is saving his neck by following the Golden Rule upside down. He is doing unto others what he feels pretty darned sure others would do unto him if they had their feet on his neck.

It is as if all the things about compassionate behavior that children learned at their mothers knees had been set aside by the exigencies of a situation in which kindness and consideration were evidence of weakness and inefficiency.

You wonder where this is heading and where the next stops may be.

Will it be surprising if some day in the not too distant future all nonproductive members of households are sent away to some distant barracks to spend their remaining days?

Is the time at hand when every Mister Big who reaches the top will get rid of his predecessor's "team" and bring in all his own people?

Has efficiency been placed so high in the scale of values in the 20th century that cost accountants and engineers will rank above the preceptors of Christian behavior in a country whose patriots boast it was founded on Christian belief?

Will it be a stronger tribute to the qualities of a rising star in the politico-business firmament to point to his "ruthlessness" than to qualities of mercy he may have shown in some unguarded moment he hopes will not be recorded in his dossier?

There is that word "ruth" which has passed out of the language. No one uses it any more, and you wonder why it became archaic and obsolete.

All of us can afford a few minutes to wonder what happened. What made our world turn ruthless?

Labor Aims At Shorter Work Year

By Victor Riesel

Whoever wrote the attack on the shorter work week into President Kennedy's State of the Union message is not up on the state of the unions' newest national campaign. Labor's hottest drive is for a shorter work year.

Victor Riesel

Labor leaders believe such a successful drive will have real impact — by making it an absolute necessity for industry to hire tens of thousands of new workers in big blocs. They feel the shorter work week of 35 hours will take too long, be too gradual a process, and not create as many jobs as was once believed inside labor.

They're not abandoning the 35-hour campaign by any means. But the romance is in the shorter work year.

ACTUALLY it has already started in "steel." The big Steelworkers' Union will begin this summer to make it universal in the big steel industry.

It's not generally known, but just about a year ago, the then secretary of labor, Arthur Goldberg, met privately with silver-haired, pipe-smoking steel union chief Dave McDonald. That was some months before the famous April steel contract was signed.

McDonald had been pushing for a shorter work week. Goldberg advised McDonald to junk the demand. The President was opposed to it, said Goldberg.

Furthermore, it could not be won in the steel industry then. Take other gains first and then push for more during the reopening of the contract in '63, McDonald was counseled.

The rest is history — some of it quite turbulent. But long after the steel war, in and out of the White House, was forgotten, the union signed a fascinating contract with the big can companies.

One section called for a sabbatical of 13 weeks. Some refer to it as an extended vacation. Others dub it the shorter work year.

The point is to take thousands of workers out of the plants regularly to make room for thousands laid off or seeking hire.

UNDER THE FORMULA, a steel worker with 15 years service gets 13 weeks vacation every five years.

Later the machinists signed the same type of contract.

Thus for thousands of workers there is a nine-month year coming up every five years.

There are other short year formulas. Joe Curran's National Maritime Union contract calls for a 60-day vacation for all sailors after one year with a company.

Some of the other seagoing unions have a regular three months vacation each year. For this they forego overtime.

In New York, brewery workers who belong to the Teamsters Brotherhood have a "vacation bank" system. After five years service with a beer producer, the men get from four to seven weeks holiday.

They can "bank" their extra weeks. If they don't take it one year, they can tack it on to their vacations any time in the future. Or they can pile them up and take the cash on retirement.

BUT EVEN where there is no unusual formula the work year has shrunk. A decade ago, only one out of every 25 contracts mentioned a fourth week of vacation.

The big vacation push has not by any means neutralized the drive for the 35-hour week, regardless of what the President has privately and publicly told labor leaders and the nation.

This campaign is being coordinated by Lane Kirkland, a talented, though anonymous, executive assistant to George Meany. This means it is being pushed by Mr. Meany's inner sanctum.

There have been seminars, special shorter work week units, and demonstrations for the 35-hour week.

Soon a bill will be introduced in Congress for a 32-hour week.

How seriously this is being taken can be seen in the plans of one of labor's own intellectuals, Leo Perlis, head of the AFL-CIO Community Service Activities Committee.

PERLIS' GROUP has scheduled a five-day national "Conference on the Shorter Work Week and the Constructive Use of Leisure Time," beginning on March 31, at the Hotel Commodore in New York. Speakers will include Laurance Rockefeller, brother of the governor, and August Heckscher, who is President Kennedy's secretary of culture.

When Perlis speaks of this parley as a working conference, he means it. There will be 12 steady workshops going from 9 a.m. to midnight each day.

There is an urgency felt by Perlis and his colleagues. They are eager to be prepared to teach millions of union members how to spend their leisure time "when we have the 35-hour week, which certainly is not far off," says Perlis.

The conference will go into a new theory of a new leisure class. Perlis is convinced he'll soon be dealing with millions working a four-day week and a nine or ten-month work year.

This is the biggest news of our era on the home front. Just wait and see.

Down Through The Years

Paradise Lost

It's becoming harder and harder to find an old - fashioned island "paradise" in the South Seas.

Two global wars and spreading airlines have brought the world and its ways to most of the palm-fringed volcanic isles and coral atolls scattered over the South Pacific.

The urge to modernize even has reached the remote and little-known French dependency of Wallis and Futuna. There, some 10,000 easy - going Polynesians, long content to fish a little and to gather the fruits of tropical abundance, are beginning to face the challenge of political and economic change.

Wallis and Futuna are two small island groups separated from each other by 120 miles of water.

Their position, northeast of the Fijis and west of Samoa, places them about as far from France as it is possible to be.

Yet the islanders voted overwhelmingly, in a 1959 referendum, to join the French Community then being organized under the new constitution of the Fifth Republic.

A Look At JFK

By David Lawrence

His Two Years In Office Are Reviewed

Since it was just two years ago when President Kennedy was inaugurated, this is perhaps the time for an exuberant Review or an agonizing reappraisal or a disinterested and dispassionate look at his administration. The category will be judged by the reader for however impartial the critic tries to be, the dyed-in-the-wool supporters of the administration will cry out that he must be a Republican or a "tool of big business" or mentally unstable if he so much as suggests that maybe Mr. Kennedy isn't just the most successful president and bravest leader we have had since George Washington.

David Lawrence

In writing from the national capital about the last nine presidents, this correspondent has never allowed any personal feelings to influence his presentation of the facts or his analysis of the impact of those facts on public affairs.

It so happens that every one of the nine presidents has been a congenial, friendly, likable and well-meaning individual.

If news interpretation were guided solely by personal feelings, this writer would have constantly been singing the praises of every one of these presidents, instead of presenting necessary criticism of public policies.

NEWS WRITING and candid interpretation are a form of public reponsibility to a constituency—the people—and not to a president or either political party.

Presidents come and go, but the country must be apprised constantly of the truth about its national and international problems, irrespective of whether the feelings of the man in the White House might for the moment be hurt by criticisms in the press.

What kind of president is Mr. Kennedy really making? Detailed reviews would seem to be superfluous, as the record has been presented and analyzed from day to day.

The most salient point to be mentioned is that the image the President himself has been giving the country by his skillful publicity during the past two years is somewhat different from what it really appears to be here in Washington.

Mr. Kennedy has been handicapped in his first two years by engaging in the same kind of experimentalism that some of his predecessors have attempted in their first term. He has brought to his side advisers inexperienced and untrained in government, and has failed to come to grips with the problem of organizing the White House itself.

It's a sorry system which permits a president to be surrounded by so many academic persons who have no direct responsibility to the people through the confirmation process in the senate.

The cabine in the last two years has been shunted to one side. Who is really secretary of state now, and who actually makes foreign policy currently? Who is really determining our economic and fiscal policies?

Mr. Kennedy tries to make the final decisions himself, but it is on the basis of what his experienced advisers tell him and he is, of course, influenced to no small extent by his political instincts.

MR. KENNEDY probably will be a much better president the next two years than in his first two for he presumably will have learned many of the lessons so essential to an effective administration.

He has an agile mind, a remarkably good memory, a pleasing personality and, above all, certain inner restraint against radicalism that bears him in good stead.

Much is being said about Mr. Kennedy's prowess as a politician and how skillfully he dispenses political favors.

He knows the way to organize a campaign and to build a machine but it isn't apparent yet whether he can sense and anticipate those policital trends and overwhelming currents of discontent, a disregard of which has caused so many election defeats in the past.

Before Mr. Kennedy was elected, it was averred by opponents that he would not be able to grapple with national and international problems because he was youthful and inexperienced. They were right about the inexperience but they were wrong in evaluating his youthfulness as a handicap. Mr. Kennedy has boundless energy, and this is a big asset to a president of the United States, who must work long hours and travel about a great deal both in this country and abroad.

Mr. Kennedy has learned a lot in two years but Congress and especially, the opposition party have failed the nation.

The country has not learned enough about the critical condition of the government's finances or the truth about our military advice before the fiasco in Cuba in 1961.

THE POWER to investigate and expose the way in which special privileges are given to favored groups has not been fully exercised. Nor have the economic dangers of the labor-union monopoly been faced by the White House or Congress.

These barriers can restrain the forward march of American business and prevent the creation of jobs for the millions who annually come of working age.

We can extol the Peace Corps idea, for instance, and talk of retraining the unemployed and of other political panaceas but until President Kennedy becomes convinced that he must assume the leadership in removing the shackles now imposed on our economic progress by the government itself—through its inaction in certain fields and over regulation in others—there can be less hope of attaining the goals so glowingly promised by the administration.

Part Of Bigger Problem

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

The Russians make a concession, at last. The United States says it's not enough. That's it, as of today. Still no agreement on banning nuclear tests after years of talking.

But just banning nuclear tests is only part of the bigger problem: general disarmament. Agreement on that looks even more dim and far off after 15 years of talking.

Basic to both agreements is the American requirement to prevent cheating: that outside inspectors be allowed inside the countries making the agreement. This is what the Russians wouldn't buy until now, and now only a little bit.

President Kennedy indicated only last week—in his budget and State of the Union messages to Congress—how remote any hope of disarmament seems although he didn't say it in so many words.

1. He said "until the world can develop a reliable system of international security, the free people have no choice but to keep their arms ready." The very phrase — "international security" —is so vague it can hardly be defined.

2. He followed this up by asking Congress to vote even more money next year than this for defense—$55.4 billion. That's more than half the total expense of running the government.

There was a time when the United States insisted any nuclear test ban agreement must permit outside inspectors inside Russia and this country to prevent cheating on tests both in the atmosphere and underground.

Now the United States is more confident it can detect atmospheric tests anywhere. It still insists on the on-site inspection to prevent trickery on underground tests.

The reasoning here is that what might seem, far off, like an earthquake might, if checked close up, prove to have been a test underground.

There was also a time when the Russians flatly rejected any inspection system inside the Soviet Union as a spy system. In 1960 the Russians softened a bit.

They agreed three on-site inspections—in a test ban agreement, not in any disarmament agreement—might be acceptable. They switched and still rejected inspection. They argued there were enough mechanical devices to do the checking.

Then, beginning last December, Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev began exchanging letters. The White House didn't let this be known until over the past weekend. It turned out, the Russians had made another switch.

Now Khrushchev expressed willingness to permit on-site inspections in Russia, but no more than three a year. Kennedy told the Russian he was encouraged. But there was a hitch.

Sewer Plant Counsel Hired For Chester

The Chester Sanitary Board, in charge of plans for the city's proposed new sewage disposal system, met Monday night with Atty. James Jordan, who has been retained as legal adviser.

Mayor Harry Abrams said Atty. Jordan was presented with a review of the board's activities, meetings with engineers concerning a planned preliminary survey for the new system and other matters.

The mayor said Atty. Jordan will study the board's preparations and will provide legal advice, to be paid for as part of the project.

Asked about utilizing the city solicitor for legal advice, Mayor Abrams said the board was empowered to select its own attorney, adding he doubted if the solicitor's salary from the city included service to the board.

Three engineers have conferred with the board about making a preliminary survey. Mayor Abrams said none of the engineers has submitted an estimate of the cost of the preliminary survey needed for the start of the project for which a $105,000 federal grant was authorized in March 1962.

A. R. Todd of Wheeling was released as engineer on the project by Council last year, although Todd claimed he had an agreement to serve as engineer and had made preliminary surveys.

Mayor Abrams said he was uncertain as to the next meeting of the board.

Post 4 Denied Liquor Permit

Applications for renewal and transfer of a D-4 permit by American Legion Post 4 have been rejected by the Ohio Department of Liquor Control in Columbus.

The post's application for renewal of the D-4 permit was rejected because "the expiration date of the permit was June 16, 1962, and there was no renewal application filed with the department, contrary to law." "Therefore, there is no permit to renew," the board said.

Post 4 applied for permission to transfer its D-4 permit from 415 E. 46h St., to 516 Market St.

In ruling, the board said "the department finds that the D-4 permit expired June 16, 1962, and that no renewal was filed; therefore, there is no permit to transfer."

The department also noted that the proposed permit premises failed to meet Regulations 17 and 28 of the liquor control regulations.

A D-4 permit is for operating a private club, selling beer, wine or spirituous liquor by-the-glass until 1 a. m.

Disputed Cars Returned To Sales Agency

Two black Studebaker Lark cruisers that had been parked in the rear of the Hancock County Courthouse since mid-December—at the disposal of Sheriff Joseph H. Manypenny but unused because of a court hassle—were returned to a Weirton auto agency over the weekend.

The vehicles are owned by Hilltop Motors of Weirton and were returned there Saturday night, apparently to protect them from the freezing weather.

County Commissioner James Finley of Weirton and former commissioner Lyle Virden of New Cumberland ordered the cars from Hilltop Motors Sept. 4, overriding an objection of Commissioner William C. Graham of Chester by a 2-1 vote.

But Graham, president of County Court, refused to sign checks authorizing payment of the cruisers, touching off a classic court battle that now rests with Judge James G. McClure.

The Weirton auto agency entered the hassle officially when Atty. Frank A. Pietranton filed petitions of intervention.

Briefs submitted by legal counsel for the three parties involved were presented to Judge Pryor for study.

School Rates On Sewers Up

EAST PALESTINE — A new higher sewer rental rate for city schools was approved by Council Monday night.

Council authorized a rate of 30 cents a pupil each quarter for the three quarters of the year school is in session. The rate had been 13 cents a pupil for four quarters.

The new rate will cost the school district some $1,500 annually, and was authorized as part of a revision of rates to help finance a new $250,000 sewage disposal plant improvement adjacent to the present plant.

Residential rates, which last year were boosted from $3 to $6 a quarter, were reduced by Council last night to $5 as a result of federal aid made available for the project.

In an informal meeting after the regular session, Council discussed proposed pay increases for police, street, water and sewer crews, but took no action. The power plant crews received a 5 per cent pay boost effective Jan. 1.

School Rates On Sewers Up

EAST PALESTINE — A new higher sewer rental rate for city schools was approved by Council Monday night.

Council authorized a rate of 30 cents a pupil each quarter for the three quarters of the year school is in session. The rate had been 13 cents a pupil for four quarters.

The new rate will cost the school district some $1,500 annually, and was authorized as part of a revision of rates to help finance a new $250,000 sewage disposal plant improvement adjacent to the present plant.

Residential rates, which last year were boosted from $3 to $6 a quarter, were reduced by Council last night to $5 as a result of federal aid made available for the project.

In an informal meeting after the regular session, Council discussed proposed pay increases for police, street, water and sewer crews, but took no action. The power plant crews received a 5 per cent pay boost effective Jan. 1.

Sewer Plant Counsel Hired For Chester

The Chester Sanitary Board, in charge of plans for the city's proposed new sewage disposal system, met Monday night with Atty. James Jordan, who has been retained as legal adviser.

Mayor Harry Abrams said Atty. Jordan was presented with a review of the board's activities, meetings with engineers concerning a planned preliminary survey for the new system and other matters.

The mayor said Atty. Jordan will study the board's preparations and will provide legal advice, to be paid for as part of the project.

Asked about utilizing the city solicitor for legal advice, Mayor Abrams said the board was empowered to select its own attorney, adding he doubted if the solicitor's salary from the city included service to the board.

Three engineers have conferred with the board about making a preliminary survey. Mayor Abrams said none of the engineers has submitted an estimate of the cost of the preliminary survey needed for the start of the project for which a $105,000 federal grant was authorized in March 1962.

A. R. Todd of Wheeling was released as engineer on the project by Council last year, although Todd claimed he had an agreement to serve as engineer and had made preliminary surveys.

Mayor Abrams said he was uncertain as to the next meeting of the board.

Post 4 Denied Liquor Permit

Applications for renewal and transfer of a D-4 permit by American Legion Post 4 have been rejected by the Ohio Department of Liquor Control in Columbus.

The post's application for renewal of the D-4 permit was rejected because "the expiration date of the permit was June 16, 1962, and there was no renewal application filed with the department, contrary to law." "Therefore, there is no permit to renew," the board said.

Post 4 applied for permission to transfer its D-4 permit from 415 E. 46h St., to 516 Market St.

In ruling, the board said "the department finds that the D-4 permit expired June 16, 1962, and that no renewal was filed; therefore, there is no permit to transfer."

The department also noted that the proposed permit premises failed to meet Regulations 17 and 28 of the liquor control regulations.

A D-4 permit is for operating a private club, selling beer, wine or spirituous liquor by-the-glass until 1 a. m.

Disputed Cars Returned To Sales Agency

Two black Studebaker Lark cruisers that had been parked in the rear of the Hancock County Courthouse since mid-December—at the disposal of Sheriff Joseph H. Manypenny but unused because of a court hassle—were returned to a Weirton auto agency over the weekend.

The vehicles are owned by Hilltop Motors of Weirton and were returned there Saturday night, apparently to protect them from the freezing weather.

County Commissioner James Finley of Weirton and former commissioner Lyle Virden of New Cumberland ordered the cars from Hilltop Motors Sept. 4, overriding an objection of Commissioner William C. Graham of Chester by a 2-1 vote.

But Graham, president of County Court, refused to sign checks authorizing payment of the cruisers, touching off a classic court battle that now rests with Judge James G. McClure.

The Weirton auto agency entered the hassle officially when Atty. Frank A. Pietranton filed petitions of intervention.

Briefs submitted by legal counsel for the three parties involved were presented to Judge Pryor for study.

Dear Heloise: My biggest complaint about mens' stretch socks and children's crew socks was that after several washings the elastic tops of these socks would stretch out of shape while the rest of the sock would still be in good condition.

My solution was elastic thread that I bought at my five and dime store. It comes in various colors and also white.

I sewed three or four rows of small stitches around the top of the sock in matching colors on my sewing machine. Presto! They looked fine and the elastic thread hardly shows at all.

Static Remover

DEAR HELOISE: I remove static electricity from my slips and under garments by dampening my hands with warm water after I darn the garment and then stroking the garments downward with my damp hands in several places.

Also, a good shaking after removing the garments from the dryer will eliminate a lot of the static.

SECRETARY.

We also know that moisture, when added in a room whether by vaporizer methods or just boiling a pan of water on a heater . . . keeps the shock down when walking across a rug and touching some object in the room.

So . . . just why wouldn't wetting your hands and running them down a nylon slip etc., do the same job?

Great idea and thanks a million times, Miss Secretary.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: A time-saving idea is the use of colored pencil or crayon, which I keep handy on my telephone stand.

When reading magazines and newspapers, I check the corner of the page with my colored pencil if I see an article that I would like to save. Then . . . when the newspaper or magazine has made the rounds of the family, I flip through it, and my colored check marks show up immediately. It saves hours of rereading and hunting for articles I want to clip.

BEVERLY VEATCH.

What's The Answer

DEAR HELOISE: Perhaps someone has the answer to a question that continues to "bug" me! That is—how to have crisp and icy salad greens at home like those most restaurants serve.

I have tried everything including putting them in a plastic bag. I have washed and drained greens in the salad bowl with dampened paper toweling over them and placed in the refrigerator and so forth. Perhaps it comes down to the restaurant's super-refrigeration facilities. Yes?

I would appreciate any answer on how to make salad greens crisp and lettuce crunchy and delightful.

MRS. J. M. SIEBERT.

DEAR FOLKS: I am sure some of you sitting home today have the answer to this problem. If by chance, you can tell not only this woman — but 25 million others — how to make their lettuce crisp, please send it to us, we need it.

Letters do not have to be signed to appear but we would appreciate ever so much if you put either your initials or name so that we can give you full credit. If you have an answer to this, you deserve it.

Send your problems, answers and "out-lets" to Heloise.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Chair-Sitting Used For Punishment

Strange as it may seem, an occasional person generally looked up to as highly cultivated may be very rude to a waitress, clerk or helper in the home. On the other hand, most persons who are considered gracious by those who mingle with them socially are also gracious to every other person with whom they come in contact, in any way. When we parents are courteous to every one who serves us, we prove our regard for him or her as a precious person. We reflect and reinforce a richness of heart inside ourselves and make others feel more worthwhile. We help ourselves and others rise to higher levels.

Dr. Garry Meyers

WE DO FAR more. We set a good example for our children. They tend to imitate our ways now and to practice like ways in the future.

How could we afford ever to be rude to the waiter or waitress who serves us food or the clerk who helps us select things to purchase or to any person whom we hire to help us about the home? How much more harmful such rudeness might be if one of our children were listening then or looking on!

It seems to me that we parents always should strive to be models of graciousness toward any person who does anything helpful for us. The very fact that we may not always feel that anybody will immediately force us to strive harder to be so. When we are especially considerate of others because we choose ourselves to be, we behave morally, don't we?

In addition to setting a good example of being kind and thoughtful to others who serve us in any way, we also need to guide our children as they grow up to be courteous and gracious to such persons.

CONSIDER THE hundreds and hundreds of situations at home in which we can work on these matters — when the postman calls with our mail, when the garbage man comes to carry away our refuse when the plumber, electrician or carpenter comes to make repairs and especially when we have domestic helpers.

Often I think there's no other area better for cultivating good moral character and citizenship in our growing children than in their and our relationship to these domestic helpers. We need to guide our children by precept and example to be thoughtful, kind and courteous to the person often referred to as a maid.

I dislike this word. Why do we use it? Why not refer to this helper as the precious person she is? Why not address her by her real name and try to have our children do likewise?

Then we need to educate our children to avoid making her any unnecessary work, to tidy up their own rooms and personal possessions and be always eager to help make her work easier instead of harder.

MOST OF ALL we need to guide our children to treat every helping individual as a precious person of dignity.

This is not only for her greater satisfaction but also for their best character development.

My bulletins, "Good Manners and Self-Control" and "Good Manners Make You Likeable" may be secured by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Bids Authorized On Purchase Of New Police Auto

Council enacted a resolution Monday night authorizing the administration to call for bids and award a contract for purchase of a new auto for use as a cruiser in the police department.

Council provided $2,500 for purchase of the new vehicle in the temporary appropriation measure enacted at the Jan. 7 meeting. The legislation authorizing the call for bids contains an emergency clause, which means it will go into effect as soon as it is signed by Mayor Bert H. Goodballet. Without the emergency clause, there would be a 30-day wait before bids could be sought.

Mayor Goodballet and Safety-Service Director Robert Owen, comprising the Board of Control, will purchase the vehicle.

In discussing purchase of the new auto two weeks ago, Council probed the possibility that one of the existing cruisers will be converted into a vehicle for use of the safety-service department and provide transportation for the Council street committee in making its weekly investigative trips. At present, the director and the councilmen provide their own transportation.

They weren't alone. A Hamilton County road crew, working nearby, lined up to a man at the curbing and stood at attention with bright yellow helmets held over their hearts.

Youth Faces Court On 7 Arson Charges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A burly teenager whose only explanation for setting about 130 fires here was a shrug of the shoulders had an appointment in Municipal Court today.

William F. Ostermeyer, 19-year-old dish washer, faced arraignment on seven counts of arson. Safety Director Albert Giles said the charges involve fires at three private garages, three homes and a downtown department store.

Giles said Ostermeyer underwent two lie detector tests Monday and that the result indicated he is the fire bug police have sought for several months.

Most of the blazes over the past year damaged or destroyed garages in north Columbus. Giles said when police ask the youth to explain his actions "he just shrugs his shoulders."

Price Of Fresh Pork Drops, Offers Shoppers 'Good Buy'

An unexpected decline in prices paid for live hogs has sent the cost of fresh pork downward slightly, offering a good buy for area housewives, according to the market information service of the Agriculture Extension Service in Canfield.

Market reports indicated that live hog prices would slowly trend higher during January and February. Instead, the trend is down —very slowly.

This slow downward price movement on live hogs has brought the prices of most wholesale cuts slightly below last year's prices at this time. Fresh picnics, spareribs, fresh shoulders, loin roasts all are fairly good values in the fresh pork line.

Rather ample supplies of broilers seem to assure this popular poultry item remaining as a store special for this week and next. Turkeys also are a popular feature for rather economically priced meat. Egg prices and supplies are quite steady.

Banana supplies continue to dwindle — and prices rise. This is largely the result of the dock strike on the East Coast and Gulf ports. A few boatloads seem to slip through the picket lines, but supplies are seriously curtailed.

Other popular fresh fruits this week are apples, grapes and grapefruit. Apples, one of the economy choices, feature the Jonathan, McIntosh and Rome varieties for general purpose use and the Red and Golden Delicious for eating.

Emperor grapes continue to come to market at quite economical prices. Grapefruit, which increased in price less than any of the other citrus, seem to be returning to a more normal price situation, except for the larger sizes. Canned fruits in fairly good supply are peaches, pears, fruit cocktail, tart cherries and applesauce.

Last week prices on live cattle were a bit lower. This led to the conclusion that there would be a slight decrease in retail prices this week, especially on the lower priced cuts. Ground beef and chuck roasts would be typical examples of these cuts.

This has happened. However, live animal prices recovered most of their loss this week, so we are largely back where we began. When prices are compared with those of a year ago, both wholesale and retail prices are slightly higher.

Many fresh vegetable supplies still are quite high. These include peppers, cucumbers, eggplant, endive and escarole. Cabbage and brussels sprouts are up in price a little this week.

Both old and new crop cabbage is available. Head lettuce price is slightly higher, potatoes, onions and carrots about the same as last week.

There is a considerable price difference in the price of white potatoes. Western grade bakers are retailing in the 9-to-12-cent range while eastern-grown whites are selling in the 4-to-5 - cent range.

Sweet potatoes are quite plentiful. Shoppers can choose between two types — dry fresh yellowish in color and moist orange colored. In the store the skins of the dry type are yellowish or pale brown while the moist sweets have copper-colored skins.

Civic Group's Board Seeks New Statutes

A legislative program for 1963 was adopted by the Executive Board of the South Beaver County Civic Association at a meeting Friday at the home of Carl Lutton of Holt Rd. in Raccoon Township.

The text of the proposals as adopted by the board:

"Authorities:" We remain firm in our belief that public authorities should be subject to tax in areas where they condemn property but do not serve or materially benefit.

Strip mining: Minimum requirements to include restoration of the land to its approximate original contour and drainage.

Planning and zoning: We urge the local governments of the South Side of Beaver County to enact the planning and minimum zoning necessary for orderly growth. It is imperative that this be done before we experience the population pressures generated by building of the Shippingport Bridge and the Beaver Valley Expressway.

Highway safety: We endorse the present program as a step in the right direction.

Credit: Full disclosure to the borrower of the exact cost of credit for the period of the loan.

Uniform packaging: Packaged items to be prominently labeled with the weight of their contents. Uniform weight standards to be set for the various sizes.

Act 561, the controversial school reorganization bill, was discussed but no decision was reached.

The group will tour the St. Joseph Lead Co. plant Feb. 28 at 7 p. m. The management asked women to wear low heels and a hair-do that will permit wearing a hard hat. Mrs. Lois A. Lutton, secretary, is in charge of reservations.

Sales Tax Totals $15,695 In Week

Receipts from prepaid tax receipts and advance payments and collections on motor vehicle sales brought Columbiana County sales tax totals for the week ending Jan.12 to $15,695, State Treasurer John D. Herbert said today in Columbus.

The revenue includes $7,060 from prepaid receipts and advance payments and $8,635 on collections from the sale of motor vehicles, Herbert said, bringing the net total since the start of the fiscal year July 1 to $946,228.

The total includes $625,800 from prepaid receipts and advance payments and $320,428 from motor vehicle taxes, Herbert said.

New Session Set In Paper Strike

CLEVELAND (AP) — Negotiators for the Cleveland Newspaper Guild and the city's two strike-bound daily newspapers discussed grievance procedure and other topics Monday in Mayor Ralph S. Locher's office.

A Guild spokesman said the key issues—union security and an economic package—blocking settlement of the 54-day-old strike against the Plain Dealer and the Press and News were deferred to a future meeting.

Another session was set for this afternoon.

Bargaining teams for the publishers and striking Teamsters Local 473 were to resume talks today. Their sessions scheduled for Saturday and Monday were called off because of the illness of Anthony DePalma, union business agent.

Irondale Man Fined

SALINEVILLE — A 57-year-old Irondale man was fined $25 and costs at a hearing Sunday before Mayor Stanley Fitch after pleading guilty to a charge of being intoxicated in public. He was cited Saturday afternoon at 3 on W. Main St. by Police Chief Roy Lewis, who said the defendant was attempting to halt passing cars.

If you are braising a large piece of meat, place it on a round wire rack or a trivet in the kettle and then add the liquid. If you have a round rangetop "baker," it may be that the rack from it fits your kettle and can be borrowed for the braising.

Static Remover

DEAR HELOISE: I remove static electricity from my slips and under garments by dampening my hands with warm water after I darn the garment and then stroking the garments downward with my damp hands in several places.

Also, a good shaking after removing the garments from the dryer will eliminate a lot of the static.

SECRETARY.

It's true. Shaking garments when removing them from the dryer does away with lots of static electricity.

We also know that moisture, when added in a room whether by vaporizer methods or just boiling a pan of water on a heater . . . keeps the shock down when walking across a rug and touching some object in the room.

So . . . just why wouldn't wetting your hands and running them down a nylon slip etc., do the same job?

Great idea and thanks a million times, Miss Secretary.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: A time-saving idea is the use of colored pencil or crayon, which I keep handy on my telephone stand.

When reading magazines and newspapers, I check the corner of the page with my colored pencil if I see an article that I would like to save. Then . . . when the newspaper or magazine has made the rounds of the family, I flip through it, and my colored check marks show up immediately. It saves hours of rereading and hunting for articles I want to clip.

BEVERLY VEATCH.

What's The Answer

DEAR HELOISE: Perhaps someone has the answer to a question that continues to "bug" me! That is—how to have crisp and icy salad greens at home like those most restaurants serve.

I have tried everything including putting them in a plastic bag. I have washed and drained greens in the salad bowl with dampened paper toweling over them and placed in the refrigerator and so forth. Perhaps it comes down to the restaurant's super-refrigeration facilities. Yes?

I would appreciate any answer on how to make salad greens crisp and lettuce crunchy and delightful.

MRS. J. M. SIEBERT.

DEAR FOLKS: I am sure some of you sitting home today have the answer to this problem. If by chance, you can tell not only this woman — but 25 million others — how to make their lettuce crisp, please send it to us, we need it.

Letters do not have to be signed to appear but we would appreciate ever so much if you put either your initials or name so that we can give you full credit. If you have an answer to this, you deserve it.

Send your problems, answers and "out-lets" to Heloise.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Chair-Sitting Used For Punishment

Strange as it may seem, an occasional person generally looked up to as highly cultivated may be very rude to a waitress, clerk or helper in the home. On the other hand, most persons who are considered gracious by those who mingle with them socially are also gracious to every other person with whom they come in contact, in any way. When we parents are courteous to every one who serves us, we prove our regard for him or her as a precious person. We reflect and reinforce a richness of heart inside ourselves and make others feel more worthwhile. We help ourselves and others rise to higher levels.

WE DO FAR more. We set a good example for our children. They tend to imitate our ways now and to practice like ways in the future.

How could we afford ever to be rude to the waiter or waitress who serves us food or the clerk who helps us select things to purchase or to any person whom we hire to help us about the home? How much more harmful such rudeness might be if one of our children were listening then or looking on!

It seems to me that we parents always should strive to be models of graciousness toward any person who does anything helpful for us. The very fact that we may not always feel that anybody will immediately force us to strive harder to be so. When we are especially considerate of others because we choose ourselves to be, we behave morally, don't we?

In addition to setting a good example of being kind and thoughtful to others who serve us in any way, we also need to guide our children as they grow up to be courteous and gracious to such persons.

CONSIDER THE hundreds and hundreds of situations at home in which we can work on these matters — when the postman calls with our mail, when the garbage man comes to carry away our refuse when the plumber, electrician or carpenter comes to make repairs and especially when we have domestic helpers.

Often I think there's no other area better for cultivating good moral character and citizenship in our growing children than in their and our relationship to these domestic helpers. We need to guide our children by precept and example to be thoughtful, kind and courteous to the person often referred to as a maid.

I dislike this word. Why do we use it? Why not refer to this helper as the precious person she is? Why not address her by her real name and try to have our children do likewise?

Then we need to educate our children to avoid making her any unnecessary work, to tidy up their own rooms and personal possessions and be always eager to help make her work easier instead of harder.

MOST OF ALL we need to guide our children to treat every helping individual as a precious person of dignity.

Bids Authorized On Purchase Of New Police Auto

Council enacted a resolution Monday night authorizing the administration to call for bids and award a contract for purchase of a new auto for use as a cruiser in the police department.

Council provided $2,500 for purchase of the new vehicle in the temporary appropriation measure enacted at the Jan. 7 meeting. The legislation authorizing the call for bids contains an emergency clause, which means it will go into effect as soon as it is signed by Mayor Bert H. Goodballet. Without the emergency clause, there would be a 30-day wait before bids could be sought.

Mayor Goodballet and Safety-Service Director Robert Owen, comprising the Board of Control, will purchase the vehicle.

In discussing purchase of the new auto two weeks ago, Council probed the possibility that one the existing cruisers will be c verted into a vehicle for use the safety-service department a provide transportation for t Council street committee in m ing its weekly investigative tri At present, the director and t councilmen provide their o v transportation.

Youth Faces Court On 7 Arson Charges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A burly teenager whose only explanation for setting about 130 fires here was a shrug of the shoulders had an appointment in Municipal Court today.

William F. Ostermeyer, 19-year-old dish washer, faced arraignment on seven counts of arson. Safety Director Albert Giles said the charges involve fires at three private garages, three homes and a downtown department store.

Giles said Ostermeyer underwent two lie detector tests Monday and that the result indicated he is the fire bug police have sought for several months.

Most of the blazes over the past year damaged or destroyed garages in north Columbus. Giles said when police ask the youth to explain his actions "he just shrugs his shoulders."

Price Of Fresh Pork Drops, Offers Shoppers 'Good Buy'

An unexpected decline in prices paid for live hogs has sent the cost of fresh pork downward slightly, offering a good buy for area housewives, according to the market information service of the Agriculture Extension Service in Canfield.

Market reports indicated that live hog prices would slowly trend higher during January and February. Instead, the trend is down —very slowly.

This slow downward price movement on live hogs has brought the prices of most wholesale cuts slightly below last year's prices at this time. Fresh picnics, spareribs, fresh shoulders, loin roasts all are fairly good values in the fresh pork line.

Rather ample supplies of broilers seem to assure this popular poultry item remaining as a store special for this week and next. Turkeys also are a popular feature for rather economically priced meat. Egg prices and supplies are quite steady.

Banana supplies continue to dwindle — and prices rise. This is largely the result of the dock strike on the East Coast and Gulf ports. A few boatloads seem to slip through the picket lines, but supplies are seriously curtailed.

Other popular fresh fruits this week are apples, grapes and grapefruit. Apples, one of the economy choices, feature the Jonathan, McIntosh and Rome varieties for general purpose use and the Red and Golden Delicious for eating.

Emperor grapes continue to come to market at quite economical prices. Grapefruit, which increased in price less than any of the other citrus, seem to be returning to a more normal price situation, except for the larger sizes. Canned fruits in fairly good supply are peaches, pears, fruit cocktail, tart cherries and applesauce.

Last week prices on live cattle were a bit lower. This led to the conclusion that there would be a slight decrease in retail prices this week, especially on the lower priced cuts. Ground beef and chuck roasts would be typical examples of these cuts.

This has happened. However, live animal prices recovered most of their loss this week, so we are largely back where we began. When prices are compared with those of a year ago, both wholesale and retail prices are slightly higher.

Many fresh vegetable supplies still are quite high. These include peppers, cucumbers, eggplant, endive and escarole. Cabbage and brussels sprouts are up in price a little this week.

Both old and new crop cabbage is available. Head lettuce price is slightly higher, potatoes, onions and carrots about the same as last week.

There is a considerable price difference in the price of white potatoes. Western grade bakers are retailing in the 9-to-12-cent range while eastern-grown whites are selling in the 4-to-5 - cent range.

Sweet potatoes are quite plentiful. Shoppers can choose between two types — dry fresh yellowish in color and moist orange colored. In the store the skins of the dry type are yellowish or pale brown while the moist sweets have copper-colored skins.

Civic Group's Board Seeks New Statutes

A legislative program for 1963 was adopted by the Executive Board of the South Beaver County Civic Association at a meeting Friday at the home of Carl Lutton of Holt Rd. in Raccoon Township.

The text of the proposals as adopted by the board:

"Authorities:" We remain firm in our belief that public authorities should be subject to tax in areas where they condemn property but do not serve or materially benefit.

Strip mining: Minimum requirements to include restoration of the land to its approximate original contour and drainage.

Planning and zoning: We urge the local governments of the South Side of Beaver County to enact the planning and minimum zoning necessary for orderly growth. It is imperative that this be done before we experience the population pressures generated by building of the Shippingport Bridge and the Beaver Valley Expressway.

Highway safety: We endorse the present program as a step in the right direction.

Credit: Full disclosure to the borrower of the exact cost of credit for the period of the loan.

Uniform packaging: Packaged items to be prominently labeled with the weight of their contents. Uniform weight standards to be set for the various sizes.

Act 561, the controversial school reorganization bill, was discussed but no decision was reached.

The group will tour the St. Joseph Lead Co. plant Feb. 28 at 7 p. m. The management asked women to wear low heels and a hair-do that will permit wearing a hard hat. Mrs. Lois A. Lutton, secretary, is in charge of reservations.

Sales Tax Totals $15,695 In Week

The total includes $625,800 from prepaid receipts and advance payments and $320,428 from motor vehicle taxes, Herbert said.

New Session Set In Paper Strike

CLEVELAND (AP) — Negotiators for the Cleveland Newspaper Guild and the city's two strike-bound daily newspapers discussed grievance procedure and other topics Monday in Mayor Ralph S. Locher's office.

A Guild spokesman said the key issues—union security and an economic package—blocking settlement of the 54-day-old strike against the Plain Dealer and the Press and News were deferred to a future meeting.

Another session was set for this afternoon.

Bargaining teams for the publishers and striking Teamsters Local 473 were to resume talks today. Their sessions scheduled for Saturday and Monday were called off because of the illness of Anthony DePalma, union business agent.

Irondale Man Fined

SALINEVILLE — A 57-year-old Irondale man was fined $25 and costs at a hearing Sunday before Mayor Stanley Fitch after pleading guilty to a charge of being intoxicated in public. He was cited Saturday afternoon at 3 on W. Main St. by Police Chief Roy Lewis, who said the defendant was attempting to halt passing cars.

Out Of The Air

How About A Look At Ourselves?

I don't know how many people went along on the CBS-TV excursion into the perilous waters of Literature the other night. It was called "Russians: Self-Impressions."

Alan Gill

Nor have I any idea whether there were more than a few survivors. But the trip, I think, was necessary. And, like all good trips, it left the voyager with some warm memories and the hope that further expeditions would be scheduled.

CBS, which virtually owns the Nielsen ratings this season and has a walloping lineup for next, is so blessed with success that it can afford to toss a footnote toward the egghead once in a while. (One "ibid." and an "op. cit." or two each month is enough to replenish the literary men.)

AND WHAT better time slot offers itself for footnote tossing than the moment early on a Wednesday night when NBC lights up with "The Virginian" and ABC comes on with "Wagon Train"?

A network, at that moment, can sneak in its culture and get away scot free. No one will be the wiser because everyone will be off with wagonmaster Hale or young Trapas.

The idea of "Russians: Self-Impressions" grew out of another CBS special a few months ago wherein a sampling of American poetry was offered the disconcerning viewer.

The program was praised in the right quarters and drew an unprecedented amount of viewer mail. This time the subject was to be the Russians—how their national character is caught by their finest novelists and playwrights.

THE HOUR started where it had to start—with a scene from Anton Chekhov's "The Cherry Orchard" and its tale of the downfall of the landed gentry, the "frivolous people" who at long last have run out of rubles.

Immediately after this tragedy of the rich, we learned of the tragedy of the poor—Nikolai Gogol's "The Overcoat"—and the tale of the pathetic little patsy, Akakii, who gave all his savings over for the new overcoat ("the best catskin, but from a distance it could be taken for marten") only to have it ripped from his back by thieves.

Akakii goes to an Important Person for help, but is coldly turned away. He dies, and shortly his ghost appears on the icy streets tearing the overcoats from the backs of strangers—including one snowy night, that of an Important Persons.

THEN CAME the program's high point—a scene from Dostoymazov" that described the restiveness of the intellectual in the face of the world's injustices.

"I accept God," Ivan cries, "but not this little world of His."

He speaks of rebellion. He tells his young, saintly brother, Alyosha, the story of a general, the general's hounds and a small boy. The boy accidently has hurt the paw of one of the hounds. The general, furious, orders the boy to run and then bellows to the pack, "At him!"

The dogs tear the child to pieces.

"Well, what did the general deserve?" Ivan asks "—to be shot?"

"To be shot," murmurs Alyosha.

Later, Alyosha says, "I dont want more suffering."

"That's rebellion!" shouts Ivan.

"No."

Ivan again cries, "Rebellion!"

WELL, THIS rebellious attitude is developed in the last two selections of the program—an argument over nihilism from Turgenev's "Fathers and Sons" and a call for freedom from Brois Pasternak's "Doctor Zhivago."

"Russians: Self-Impressions," you see, made a neat package; and there was no need for anyone to say a word about czars or commissars. We had been taken, with artistry and understanding, from the world of one to the world of the other.

The smart design was, I suppose, largely the work of Richard Siemanowski, the producer-adapter; and his actors, who seemed right at home on the banks of the Don.

But now, CBS, what next? Could we look more closely into the American character, maybe, with some words from Willa Cather or some others from John Dos Passos? How about an entire program dedicated to excerpts from "U.S.A."?

Fire Damage Seen Lowest For 6 Years

East Liverpool's fire loss of $23,872 in 1962 was the lowest in six years and the fifth lowest recorded in the last 17 years, Chief Charles Bryan told City Council Monday night as he submitted his annual report.

But the year was a tragic one for the department, with the death of Fireman Richard J. Plumley, claimed Aug. 3 by fumes inhaled while attempting to rescue three other victims from a North Side cesspool, Chief Bryan recalled.

Discussing the insurance loss paid on fires, which included $18,415 on buildings and $5,367 on contents, Chief Bryan commented: "We can't be proud of it."

He pointed out there is no estimate of damages on uninsured property or contents.

The 1961 loss was $32,435 and the smallest loss was registered in 1948, totaling only $14,851.

The department responded to 254 alarms in the year, with 194 being received by telephone, 35 from the police department, 16 verbally, 7 from fire alarm boxes, and 2 from telephone operators, Bryan said.

January was the worst month for alarms, with 42 being received, while 40 were answered in March. Only nine alarms were received in November.

Other monthly totals were: February, 14; April, 21; May, 24; June and July, 17 each; August, 21; September, 16; October, 19, and December, 28.

Nearly 64 per cent of the fires were home, auto or grass blazes, Chief Bryan said, listing 70 house fires, 60 in cars and 32 grass fires. There were 17 false alarms and 9 resuscitator calls.

Fifty-five alarms were miscellaneous calls in which there was no fire, the chief reported. He said the cause could not be determined for 41 blazes.

Carburetor backfires were blamed for 23 fires, cigarettes for 11 and short circuits for 10.

The department's miscellaneous calls included 175 inspections, 45 to flush hydrants, 16 to flush leaking gasoline, 14 smoke investigation, 15 to let people locked out into their homes, 13 on electrical wiring and 12 on faulty furnaces.

Other miscellaneous calls included installing ropes and painting flagpoles, trash complaints, removing refrigerators, aiding police, auto wrecks and taking ill people home.

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Remodeling Program Offered Homemakers

Excess weight is wily — it can take you almost unawares. It is only human nature to ignore creeping poundage until a changed situation jolts you into facing facts. This is the case with the homemaker in today's story.

Ida Jean Kain

"In the past 15 years I've slowly taken on 25 burdensome pounds. Being a busy homemaker, raising a family and taking an active part in community affairs, I pretty much accepted this excess weight — not happily, but it seemed to take more concerted attention to reduce than I could give to the project.

"Recently I have taken an office job and find to my chagrin that I am downright dumpy and look years older than my contemporaries. Ida Jean, I feel as if I'd been left behind! In the past few months I have dieted fitfully, but it never lasts long.

"I NEED HELP. The budget is limited, but I could stretch it to cover a reducing salon if you so advise. What do you suggest for a 40-year-old, tired and discouraged overweight homemaker who has gone back to work?"

The first step is to put yourself in the hands of a competent doctor. It is particularly important at this time in your life that you have a physical check-up. You want to lose 25 excess pounds, but what you really want is to look and feel your best self. Your doctor can help you.

The mistake you have made, and it is a common one, is to try to "diet" rigidly instead of using the science of nutrition to build slimness and vitality. Lopsided dieting has sapped your energy just at the time more energy is needed to carry on.

Talk with the doctor about your daily eating habits. It is quite possible that you are starving your body of the protective foods while supporting the excess pounds on foods which furnish chiefly "empty calories."

Working wives need superior nutrition. Plan the grocery order and family meals around lean meat, fish and chicken, cottage cheese, skim milk or buttermilk, eggs, green and yellow vegetables, fruit and fruit juices.

Be sure to eat three good meals a day, starting with breakfast. Skip rich desserts and trim off fats and it will not be difficult to keep your calories within 1,200 a day.

Age 40 is the time to start something new. Call your local YWCA and see if you can join an exercise course one evening a week. The Y classes begin the last week in January. Inquire if they offer a charm workshop, or any type of make - yourself-over course.

In three months you can look and feel like a new woman. Come on. . .40 is barely young middle age! Let's hear from you again. Happy slimming!

$4,208 In Stamp Sales Listed For New Postal Unit

Stamp sales totaled $4,208 in the first 10½ months the branch post office in Calcutta was open, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today.

The branch, opened Feb. 12 in the Potters Lumber Co. building, issued 907 money orders, cashed 60, handled 256 registered letters, 1,164 insured parcels and 1,553 regular parcels, Brown said.

Mail is picked up at the branch and brought to the main office for dispatch, but no box service or delivery is available, Brown explained. The branch sells stamps, envelopes, cards, accepts regular or insured parcels, processes registered and certified mail, international mail and writes money orders.

The branch office, along with the main office and Station A in the East End has started using a new print - punch money order machine using new yellow money order cards.

The operation does not save time in the office but aid in processing cards when they arrive at the General Accounting Office, Brown said. All offices, regardless of class, have been supplied with the machines, he added.

Health Board Adopts New Dump Law

LISBON — The Columbiana County Board of Health Monday night adopted an ordinance providing strict controls over trash dumps within the county health district.

The ordinance requires that a license be obtained from the health department for operation of a dump at a fee of $2, a suitable road be provided to the dumping area, covering of the trash at least three times each week, extinguishing any fires that may result and penalties for violations according to a section of the Ohio Revised Code.

In other business, the board discussed physical examinations given in two school districts, contending they are not thorough enough in the time allowed.

Dr. C. S. Palmer, county health commissioner, will contact the Beaver and Southern Local Boards, advising them of the recommendations that the physicals should be given by the family physician.

Dr. Leonard Pritchard, board member, also requested that data on any immunizations given to school children should be turned in to the family physicians for their records on the youngsters.

The board also discussed the 1963 Dr. Robert L. Dunlap health essay contest it sponsors but no official action was taken.

Dr. Palmer's monthly reports showed:

The department issued 16 plumbing and eight sewage permits.

Gene Cover, plumbing inspector, made 25 plumbing and six sewage inspections, took nine water samples, investigated a nuisance and made 14 food service calls.

Harry Stockdale, sanitarian, made 72 food service inspections, seven sewer, six nuisances, took 10 water samples, inspected two nursing homes, two schools and held 13 conferences.

The doctor and nurse made 10 visits to the County Jail, giving 24 Mantoux TB tests, made eight school visits, giving 331 immunizations, 11 polio shots and 148 vaccinations, the nurse made seven home visits and 22 to doctors offices. There were 75 cases of measles, 22 chicken pox and 16 of mumps, one influenza meningitis death, one meningitis case of type unknown and two positive venereal disease cases.

The TB Clinic report shows it gave 72 chest X-rays, made 86 nursing visits, four consultations were held with the medical director and one patient was started on drug therapy for a total of 146 such patients. Two patients were admitted to TB hospitals, three were discharged and one died.

Dr. Pritchard reported on a letter he sent to the state in regards to a subsidy in which the county's share was reduced to $3,600 per year. The reply quoted that the state had made a mistake and that the county would receive $4,900 as its share, or $100 more than last year.

Bills of $3,044.47 were ordered paid.

Next meeting is Feb. 18 at 8 p. m.

Out Of The Air

By ALAN GILL

How About A Look At Ourselves?

I don't know how many people went along on the CBS-TV excursion into the perilous waters of Literature the other night. It was called "Russians: Self-Impressions."

Alan Gill

Nor have I any idea whether there were more than a few survivors. But the trip, I think, was necessary. And, like all good trips, it left the voyager with some warm memories and the hope that further expeditions would be scheduled.

CBS, which virtually owns the Nielsen ratings this season and has a walloping lineup for next, is so blessed with success that it can afford to toss a footnote toward the egghead once in a while. (One "ibid." and an "op. cit." or two each month is enough to replenish the literary men.)

AND WHAT better time slot offers itself for footnote tossing than the moment early on a Wednesday night when NBC lights up with "The Virginian" and ABC comes on with "Wagon Train"?

A network, at that moment, can sneak in its culture and get away scot free. No one will be the wiser because everyone will be off with wagonmaster Hale or young Trapas.

The idea of "Russians: Self-Impressions" grew out of another CBS special a few months ago wherein a sampling of American poetry was offered the disconcerning viewer.

The program was praised in the right quarters and drew an unprecedented amount of viewer mail. This time the subject was to be the Russians—how their national character is caught by their finest novelists and playwrights.

THE HOUR started where it had to start—with a scene from Anton Chekhov's "The Cherry Orchard" and its tale of the downfall of the landed gentry, the "frivolous people" who at long last have run out of rubles.

Immediately after this tragedy of the rich, we learned of the tragedy of the poor—Nikolai Gogol's "The Overcoat"—and the tale of the pathetic little patsy, Akakii, who gave all his savings over for the new overcoat ("the best catskin, but from a distance it could be taken for marten") only to have it ripped from his back by thieves.

Akakii goes to an Important Person for help, but is coldly turned away. He dies, and shortly his ghost appears on the icy streets tearing the overcoats from the backs of strangers—including one snowy night, that of an Important Persons.

THEN CAME the program's high point—a scene from Dostoymazov" that described the restiveness of the intellectual in the face of the world's injustices.

He speaks of rebellion. He tells his young, saintly brother, Alyosha, the story of a general, the general's hounds and a small boy. The boy accidently has hurt the paw of one of the hounds. The general, furious, orders the boy to run and then bellows to the pack, "At him!"

The dogs tear the child to pieces.

"Well, what did the general deserve?" Ivan asks "—to be shot?"

"To be shot," murmurs Alyosha.

Later, Alyosha says, "I dont want more suffering."

"That's rebellion!" shouts Ivan.

"No."

WELL, THIS rebellious attitude is developed in the last two selections of the program—an argument over nihilism from Turgenev's "Fathers and Sons" and a call for freedom from Brois Pasternak's "Doctor Zhivago."

"Russians: Self-Impressions," you see, made a neat package; and there was no need for anyone to say a word about czars or commissars. We had been taken, with artistry and understanding, from the world of one to the world of the other.

The smart design was, I suppose, largely the work of Richard Siemanowski, the producer-adapter; and his actors, who seemed right at home on the banks of the Don.

But now, CBS, what next? Could we look more closely into the American character, maybe, with some words from Willa Cather or some others from John Dos Passos? How about an entire program dedicated to excerpts from "U.S.A."?

The Wednesday nights stretch out before us like so many large unpainted canvases, eh, Siemanowski?

Clemson's Trustees To Study Gantt Case

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Clemson College trustees will meet here this week to consider the admission of the school's first Negro student.

Gov. Donald S. Russell had no comment after Chief Judge Simon Sobeloff of the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals and Chief Justice Earl Warren of the U.S. Supreme Court refused to delay an order that Harvey Gantt, 20, of Charleston be enrolled at Clemson.

Russell said he might make a statement after conferring with state officials. The trustees set their meeting for Wednesday or Thursday. Other state officials refused comment.

Fire Damage Seen Lowest For 6 Years

East Liverpool's fire loss of $23,872 in 1962 was the lowest in six years and the fifth lowest recorded in the last 17 years, Chief Charles Bryan told City Council Monday night as he submitted his annual report.

But the year was a tragic one for the department, with the death of Fireman Richard J. Plumley, claimed Aug. 3 by fumes inhaled while attempting to rescue three other victims from a North Side cesspool, Chief Bryan recalled.

Discussing the insurance loss paid on fires, which included $18,415 on buildings and $5,367 on contents, Chief Bryan commented: "We can't be proud of it."

He pointed out there is no estimate of damages on uninsured property or contents.

The 1961 loss was $32,435 and the smallest loss was registered in 1948, totaling only $14,851.

The department responded to 254 alarms in the year, with 194 being received by telephone, 35 from the police department, 16 verbally, 7 from fire alarm boxes, and 2 from telephone operators, Bryan said.

January was the worst month for alarms, with 42 being received, while 40 were answered in March. Only nine alarms were received in November.

Other monthly totals were: February, 14; April, 21; May, 24; June and July, 17 each; August, 21; September, 16; October, 19, and December, 28.

Nearly 64 per cent of the fires were home, auto or grass blazes, Chief Bryan said, listing 70 house fires, 60 in cars and 32 grass fires. There were 17 false alarms and 9 resuscitator calls.

Fifty-five alarms were miscellaneous calls in which there was no fire, the chief reported. He said the cause could not be determined for 41 blazes.

Carburetor backfires were blamed for 23 fires, cigarettes for 11 and short circuits for 10.

The department's miscellaneous calls included 175 inspections, 45 to flush hydrants, 16 to flush leaking gasoline, 14 smoke investigation, 15 to let people locked out into their homes, 13 on electrical wiring and 12 on faulty furnaces.

Other miscellaneous calls included installing ropes and painting flagpoles, trash complaints, removing refrigerators, aiding police, auto wrecks and taking ill people home.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Remodeling Program Offered Homemakers

Excess weight is wily — it can take you almost unawares. It is only human nature to ignore creeping poundage until a changed situation jolts you into facing facts. This is the case with the homemaker in today's story.

Ida Jean Kain

"In the past 15 years I've slowly taken on 25 burdensome pounds. Being a busy homemaker, raising a family and taking an active part in community affairs, I pretty much accepted this excess weight — not happily, but it seemed to take more concerted attention to reduce than I could give to the project.

"Recently I have taken an office job and find to my chagrin that I am downright dumpy and look years older than my contemporaries. Ida Jean, I feel as if I'd been left behind! In the past few months I have dieted fitfully, but it never lasts long.

"I NEED HELP. The budget is limited, but I could stretch it to cover a reducing salon if you so advise. What do you suggest for a 40-year-old, tired and discouraged overweight homemaker who has gone back to work?"

The first step is to put yourself in the hands of a competent doctor. It is particularly important at this time in your life that you have a physical check-up. You want to lose 25 excess pounds, but what you really want is to look and feel your best self. Your doctor can help you.

The mistake you have made, and it is a common one, is to try to "diet" rigidly instead of using the science of nutrition to build slimness and vitality. Lopsided dieting has sapped your energy just at the time more energy is needed to carry on.

Talk with the doctor about your daily eating habits. It is quite possible that you are starving your body of the protective foods while supporting the excess pounds on foods which furnish chiefly "empty calories."

Working wives need superior nutrition. Plan the grocery order and family meals around lean meat, fish and chicken, cottage cheese, skim milk or buttermilk, eggs, green and yellow vegetables, fruit and fruit juices.

Be sure to eat three good meals a day, starting with breakfast. Skip rich desserts and trim off fats and it will not be difficult to keep your calories within 1,200 a day.

Age 40 is the time to start something new. Call your local YWCA and see if you can join an exercise course one evening a week. The Y classes begin the last week in January. Inquire if they offer a charm workshop, or any type of make - yourself-over course.

In three months you can look and feel like a new woman. Come on. . .40 is barely young middle age! Let's hear from you again. Happy slimming!

Send a stamped, self-addressed long envelope for "Hunger Control Diet," and "Get A Lift With Posture." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of The Review. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

$4,208 In Stamp Sales Listed For New Postal Unit

Stamp sales totaled $4,208 in the first 10½ months the branch post office in Calcutta was open, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today.

The branch, opened Feb. 12 in the Potters Lumber Co. building, issued 907 money orders, cashed 60, handled 256 registered letters, 1,164 insured parcels and 1,553 regular parcels, Brown said.

Mail is picked up at the branch and brought to the main office for dispatch, but no box service or delivery is available, Brown explained. The branch sells stamps, envelopes, cards, accepts regular or insured parcels, processes registered and certified mail, international mail and writes money orders.

The branch office, along with the main office and Station A in the East End has started using a new print - punch money order machine using new yellow money order cards.

The operation does not save time in the office but aid in processing cards when they arrive at the General Accounting Office, Brown said. All offices, regardless of class, have been supplied with the machines, he added.

The magazine comments that Moss "is typical of the skilled craftsmen who constitute the backbone of the international union and of the American pottery industry".

Health Board Adopts New Dump Law

LISBON — The Columbiana County Board of Health Monday night adopted an ordinance providing strict controls over trash dumps within the county health district.

The ordinance requires that a license be obtained from the health department for operation of a dump at a fee of $2, a suitable road be provided to the dumping area, covering of the trash at least three times each week, extinguishing any fires that may result and penalties for violations according to a section of the Ohio Revised Code.

In other business, the board discussed physical examinations given in two school districts, contending they are not thorough enough in the time allowed.

Dr. C. S. Palmer, county health commissioner, will contact the Beaver and Southern Local Boards, advising them of the recommendations that the physicals should be given by the family physician.

Dr. Leonard Pritchard, board member, also requested that data on any immunizations given to school children should be turned in to the family physicians for their records on the youngsters.

The board also discussed the 1963 Dr. Robert L. Dunlap health essay contest it sponsors but no official action was taken.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: For the last couple of weeks I noticed there were very few socks in the wash. I checked and found that my two teen-age sons have not been wearing socks to school. They just put their feet into their shoes and go.

I asked them about this and they said it was the fad. I had never heard of this fad so I asked a few friends who are also the mothers of teen-agers. They said it's the same at their house and they can't do anything about it.

One of my sons has had athlete's foot from time to time. I don't think going without socks is a good idea for him. What shall I do? Keep quiet and hope the fad fades soon? — D.R.

Dear D.R.: Fad shmad. Tell your boys they are not leaving the house without socks and make it final. This practice is unsanitary, unhealthful and silly.

Supports Husband

Dear Ann: My husband is a college student and I am the only employed member of the family. I make $57.50 a week and this must pay for everything including his tuition and books. I'm not complaining. I feel one day it will be worth the sacrifices we are making now but I do need some advice.

My husband joined a volunteer rescue squad and spends every Sunday, holiday and spare minute at the squad house. He never does anything around home, we can't go to church together and we have no social life. I am awakened at all hours of the night by emergency calls and often go to work at 8 a.m., half dead from lack of sleep.

He gets no pay for this. I've had to buy him two white uniforms and white shoes.

He says he'd like to be a doctor but we can't swing it financially so he is studying psychology. I know the rescue squad is important work but is he being fair to me?—CAROL T.

Dear Carol: Tell your husband that the most important rescue job right now is at home —saving his marriage.

Since he seems to be so enthusiastic about rushing to the scene of accidents tell him to get a paid job with an ambulance service. He can donate his time to the community when he's a wage earner.

Unfit Mother

Dear Ann: I could write a book but I'll try to be brief. Our daughter is 22. She was always wild and wouldn't listen to anybody. Two years ago she had a baby out of wedlock.

We took her and the baby in, tried to be kind and helpful and encouraged her to make a respectable life for herself.

She is up to her old tricks again, running around with married men. She has a job but doesn't pay us one cent for room and board. She won't wash a dish or a diaper—says she works all day at a store and that's enough.

We are so fed up we'd like to throw her out, but we love our little granddaughter and I'm afraid she'd be neglected if we didn't keep her here.

I pray our daughter will meet a decent man and get married but the way she runs around no decent man would want her. Please tell us what to do.—W.P.K.

Dear W.P.K.: Under the present setup it's easy for this girl to be a tramp. She has no responsibilities. Lay down the law and tell her what is expected or out she goes. You easily could prove she is an unfit mother and prevent her from taking the child. Let her know it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

School

He reminded the board a state building inspector ordered a survey he made of the building last year by a structural engineering firm.

The firm approved the building with the understanding it will be replaced, he said.

Although the disposition of Central is the immediate problem, the board eventually must turn its attention to some elementary buildings, particularly in the East End, he pointed out.

The longer a decision is delayed on Central, the longer any other program will have to be postponed, Betts said.

One of the problems in reaching a decision on whether to build a new school would be the disposition of the present high school building and Memorial Auditorium.

The high school building has not outlived its usefulness and the M-A is regarded as one of the finest basketball floors in the area, board members said.

If the board decides to replace Central with a new laboratory building, the present high school would be used for academic classes only with some of the present "shops" being moved into the new structure.

The citizens' committee made its recommendation after the majority favored a new site, the same trend a survey of parents made by school officials early last year showed.

Betts has called attention to the Central problem for several years and board members have pointed out that much of the maintenance fund must be used to keep the building in suitable condition for classes.

Crossings

The action is a result of negotiations with the Pennsy dating back approximately four years.

Council and the administration insisted on modern protection systems at Broadway and Walnut Crossings, the two busiest in the downtown area. After a series of meetings stretching over months, the railroad agreed to install the automatic systems if the city would reciprocate by closing the three little-used crossings.

Council took the first step toward closing of the crossings last May. But since the railroad did not begin installation of the new protection system, the legislation was allowed to die.

The new legislative step was initiated after the city was advised the railroad received permission Jan. 8 from the Public Utilities Commission at Columbus to proceed with installation of the system.

At present, both crossings are protected by manually - operated gates and watchmen. The Broadway Crossing has a watchman on a 24-hour basis, but the Walnut St. Crossing is not manned between 11 p. m. and 8 a. m.

The hearing before the PUCO was a formality. Council enacted a resolution Nov. 19 giving the city's consent to the change in the protection system.

LISBON — A fire at the Lisbon Diesel & Supply, Inc., 234 E. Washington St., gutted the front part of two offices and display rooms at 11:30 p.m. Monday.

Firemen fought the blaze in 6-degree temperature for almost two hours before it was brought under control and then returned at 5 this morning after the fire flared again.

Robert Burris and Gail McCune, co-owners, said they cannot estimate the damages until they are able to take an inventory of equipment in the display room and offices.

William Hogue, coming home from the R. Thomas Co. plant, saw the blaze through the large windows in the offices and ran across the street to the home of John Varner to have him call the fire department. When Varner answered the door the fire exploded through the front windows and flames started up the front of the 35-x-60-foot, two-story building. Large rafters between the ceiling on the first floor hampered firemen in dousing the blaze.

The owners said the loss is only partially covered by insurance. Plans for rebuilding are uncertain at present.

Employes will be able to continue to work in a garage in the rear of the building hit by the fire.

The company sells and repairs heavy diesel - powered equipment.

Firemen also were called to W. Washington St. at 2:50 p.m. to extinguish a blaze in a pickup truck owned by William Seidner of Lisbon.

Merger

cials were invited, but declined.

There was little discussion on Murray's motion until after it had been approved. In addition to Willshaw, Murray and Duffy, favorable votes were cast by Councilmen Kenneth C. Berg, S. James Welch and Edward Massey.

"If you're opposed to the merger, why do you ask for hearings?" Safety - Service Director Robert Owen asked.

"It's the same action Wellsville took — to bring out the facts for the public," Murray replied.

Then Willshaw said he had not understood the motion fully and did not realize it placed Council in opposition to the merger in addition to asking hearings.

He pointed out the rail union spokesmen said Council could ask hearings without taking a position on the merger and he believed that was the intent of the motion.

Cold Moderates But There May Be Snow

"You can't win 'em all." That's what winter-weary East Liverpool said today as the city escaped another night of near zero but kept its eyes on the skies for snow.

Zero to 5 below had been forecast for early today, after close to zero Monday morning, but the mercury halted at 16 on the way down in East Liverpool. There was a skim of snow after the cold eased early this morning and occasional snow is forecast for tonight. The day's high range will be 24 to 29, considerably "warmer" that than yesterday's temperature of between 10 and 13.

Field Representative Is Guest Of City Quartet Singers Unit

Hugh Ingram, international field representative for the Johnny Appleseed District, paid a surprise visit at the meeting of the East Liverpool SPEBSQSA Chapter Monday night at the Elks Club ballroom. About 30 were present.

He stressed the importance of emphasizing fun and fellowship by spending most of the time at meetings in singing and leaving the majority of the business to the Executive Board.

He outlined a musical program set up by international for the coming year which includes new barbershop arrangements to be presented every two months to stimulate woodshedding. These musical kits will be available to new chapters and also to the barbershop sections of the high school chorus groups.

Glenn Hart, president, conducted business. Dale Keddie, program vice president, said the chapter will present a program for the high school assembly Wednesday afternoon. Don Schussler, public relations officer, will explain the aims and purposes of barbershopping along with a brief history of the local chapter.

The Colonials, comprised of James Raffle, Keddie, Charles Brooks and Bill Brooks, will conduct a musical craft session by giving an answer in song to the question "What Is Barbershop Music?" They will also present several popular show numbers.

Bill Brooks, quartet promotion chairman, announced plans for a novice quartet contest. It will be run in two sections, with six quartets competing on Feb. 4 and another six on Feb. 11. Members may participate in as many quartets as they desire. Three finalist quartets will compete Feb. 18 when the champions will be chosen. Their international quartet registration will be paid and they will sing for the annual Parade of Quartets in March.

Bill Thomas announced a mid-winter House of Delegates' meeting Feb. 1-3 at Canton. Featured will be quartet coaching, officer training and barbershop craft sessions.

The parade committee will meet Friday at the home of Schussler of Spring Grove Ave. Committees will be chosen for the annual event March 30-31 at Westgate when the featured quartet will be "The Suntones," international champions from Miami.

The Executive Board will meet Wednesday with Keddie of Mulberry St. Next meeting is Monday at the ballroom.

Across-the-board pay increases effective Dec. 1 were given all members of the department along with most other city employes.

Rank - and - file firemen and three assistant chiefs were given boosts of $45 monthly while Bryan's salary was boosted $50 a month.

The city also is awaiting delivery of a new $1,000-gallon pumper ordered late in December to replace a 32-year-old Seagraves unit.

He also renewed his appeals for establishment of a building code and appointment of an electrical inspector. Bryan said it marks the 22nd time he has asked enactment of a building code and the 14th year he has sought an electrical inspector.

Council referred the fund requests to its finance committee. Councilman George E. Willshaw commended the chief "for a job well-done" and added: "He always files a comprehensive report."

Other members joined in commending the chief and the department.

Ohio Girl's Winner In Wool Suit Contest

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Marjorie Spry, Van Wert, Ohio, has won the wool suit division of the national "Make It Yourself with Wool" contest.

Results of the contest, which drew more than 10,000 entries for all divisions, were announced Monday at the annual convention of the National Wool Growers Association.

Dispute

County Prosecutor G. William Brokaw filed an appeal in Judge Sharp's court on the state board's reinstatement order on two grounds:

1. The order of the Personnel Board of Review is not supported by reliable, probative and substantial evidence.

2. The order of the board is not in accordance with the law.

Counsel for Mrs. Case, Atty. Guy Mauro of Salem and Atty. Paul Tobin of East Liverpool, at a subsequent hearing claimed the court had no jurisdiction in regulating or modifying the penalty imposed by the board because an amendment of the Ohio General Code provides that "the board's decision is final."

Judge Sharp's opinion, however, pointed to subsequently revised sections of the code which specify that "in the absence of a finding that the decision of the State Personnel Board of Review is supported by reliable, probative and substantial evidence and is in accordance with law, then the court may reverse, vacate or modify such decision or make such other ruling as is supported by such evidence and is in accordance with law."

Judge Sharp pointed out that there was no "reliable, probative and substantial evidence" of the sincerity, hard work and diligence of Mrs. Case in the record as PBX operator, which would substantiate the board's decision to modify the commissioners' order of discharge to 120 days.

"Since there has been no finding that the board's decision was supported by evidence and is in accordance with law, the court is empowered to rule in the matter, Judge Sharp's opinion said.

"And since," the judge declared, "the evidence is overwhelming that Mrs. Case engaged in partisan political activity, to an extent much greater than noted by the board, the order of the county commissioners discharging her was amply justified.

"Therefore," the judge ruled, "the commissioners' order is affirmed and the decision of the State Personnel Board of Review modifying the order of discharge is reversed."

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: For the last couple of weeks I noticed there were very few socks in the wash. I checked and found that my two teen-age sons have not been wearing socks to school. They just put their feet into their shoes and go.

I asked them about this and they said it was the fad. I had never heard of this fad so I asked a few friends who are also the mothers of teen-agers. They said it's the same at their house and they can't do anything about it.

One of my sons has had athlete's foot from time to time. I don't think going without socks is a good idea for him. What shall I do? Keep quiet and hope the fad fades soon? — D.R.

Dear D.R.: Fad shmad. Tell your boys they are not leaving the house without socks and make it final. This practice is unsanitary, unhealthful and silly.

Supports Husband

Dear Ann: My husband is a college student and I am the only employed member of the family. I make $57.50 a week and this must pay for everything including his tuition and books. I'm not complaining. I feel one day it will be worth the sacrifices we are making now but I do need some advice.

My husband joined a volunteer rescue squad and spends every Sunday, holiday and spare minute at the squad house. He never does anything around home, we can't go to church together and we have no social life. I am awakened at all hours of the night by emergency calls and often go to work at 8 a.m., half dead from lack of sleep.

He gets no pay for this. I've had to buy him two white uniforms and white shoes.

He says he'd like to be a doctor but we can't swing it financially so he is studying psychology. I know the rescue squad is important work but is he being fair to me?—CAROL T.

Dear Carol: Tell your husband that the most important rescue job right now is at home—saving his marriage.

Since he seems to be so enthusiastic about rushing to the scene of accidents tell him to get a paid job with an ambulance service. He can donate his time to the community when he's a wage earner.

Unfit Mother

Dear Ann: I could write a book but I'll try to be brief. Our daughter is 22. She was always wild and wouldn't listen to anybody. Two years ago she had a baby out of wedlock.

We took her and the baby in, tried to be kind and helpful and encouraged her to make a respectable life for herself.

She is up to her old tricks again, running around with married men. She has a job but doesn't pay us one cent for room and board. She won't wash a dish or a diaper—says she works all day at a store and that's enough.

We are so fed up we'd like to throw her out but we love our little granddaughter and I'm afraid she'd be neglected if we didn't keep her here.

I pray our daughter will meet a decent man and get married but the way she runs around no decent man would want her. Please tell us what to do.—W.P.K.

Dear W.P.K.: Under the present setup it's easy for this girl to be a tramp. She has no responsibilities. Lay down the law and tell her what is expected or out she goes. You easily could prove she is an unfit mother and prevent her from taking the child. Let her know it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

School

out two reasons why the board must give serious thought to the problem.

He reminded the board a state building inspector ordered a survey he made of the building last year by a structural engineering firm.

The firm approved the building with the understanding it will be replaced, he said.

Although the disposition of Central is the immediate problem, the board eventually must turn its attention to some elementary buildings, particularly in the East End, he pointed out.

The longer a decision is delayed on Central, the longer any other program will have to be postponed, Betts said.

One of the problems in reaching a decision on whether to build a new school would be the disposition of the present high school building and Memorial Auditorium.

The high school building has not outlived its usefulness and the M-A is regarded as one of the finest basketball floors in the area, board members said.

If the board decides to replace Central with a new laboratory building, the present high school would be used for academic classes only with some of the present "shops" being moved into the new structure.

The citizens' committee made its recommendation after the majority favored a new site, the same trend a survey of parents made by school officials early last year showed.

Betts has called attention to the Central problem for several years and board members have pointed out that much of the maintenance fund must be used to keep the building in suitable condition for classes.

Crossings

unanimously and without comment.

The action is a result of negotiations with the Pennsy dating back approximately four years.

Council and the administration insisted on modern protection systems at Broadway and Walnut Crossings, the two busiest in the downtown area. After a series of meetings stretching over months, the railroad agreed to install the automatic systems if the city would reciprocate by closing the three little-used crossings.

Council took the first step toward closing of the crossings last May. But since the railroad did not begin installation of the new protection system, the legislation was allowed to die.

The new legislative step was initiated after the city was advised the railroad received permission Jan. 8 from the Public Utilities Commission at Columbus to proceed with installation of the system.

At present, both crossings are protected by manually - operated gates and watchmen. The Broadway Crossing has a watchman on a 24-hour basis, but the Walnut St. Crossing is not manned between 11 p. m. and 8 a. m.

The hearing before the PUCO was a formality. Council enacted a resolution Nov. 19 giving the city's consent to the change in the protection system.

The flute and piccolo are the only woodwind instruments used in a symphony orchestra that do not have reeds.

Ohio Girl's Winner In Wool Suit Contest

County Prosecutor G. William Brokaw filed an appeal in Judge Sharp's court on the state board's reinstatement order on two grounds:

1. The order of the Personnel Board of Review is not supported by reliable, probative and substantial evidence.

2. The order of the board is not in accordance with the law.

Counsel for Mrs. Case, Atty. Guy Mauro of Salem and Atty. Paul Tobin of East Liverpool, at a subsequent hearing claimed the court had no jurisdiction in regulating or modifying the penalty imposed by the board because an amendment of the Ohio General Code provides that "the board's decision is final."

Judge Sharp's opinion, however, pointed to subsequently revised sections of the code which specify that "in the absence of a finding that the decision of the State Personnel Board of Review is supported by reliable, probative and substantial evidence and is in accordance with law, then the court may reverse, vacate or modify such decision or make such other ruling as is supported by such evidence and is in accordance with law."

Judge Sharp pointed out that there was no "reliable, probative and substantial evidence" of the sincerity, hard work and diligence of Mrs. Case in the record as PBX operator, which would substantiate the board's decision to modify the commissioners' order of discharge to 120 days.

"Since there has been no finding that the board's decision was supported by evidence and is in accordance with law, the court is empowered to rule in the matter, Judge Sharp's opinion said.

"And since," the judge declared, "the evidence is overwhelming that Mrs. Case engaged in partisan political activity, to an extent much greater than noted by the board, the order of the county commissioners discharging her was amply justified.

"Therefore," the judge ruled, "the commissioners' order is affirmed and the decision of the State Personnel Board of Review modifying the order of discharge is reversed."

Revenge-Minded Newell Hosts Cumberland Tonight

Vikings Have Won Last 9

A preview of the Section 1, Class A tournament finals slated March 2 may unfold tonight when the co-favorites — Newell and New Cumberland — square off at the Wells High gymnasium.

The two Hancock County rivals will most likely wind up in the tourney finals as each has posted decisive victories over the other competitors — Bethany and West Liberty.

NEW CUMBERLAND (9-3) has already bagged a win over Newell, 64-38. That occurred Dec. 7 and since then Coach John Robison's red-hot Newell quint has clicked off nine straight and compiled a sparkling 11-1 record.

The Vikings may exact revenge for their lone defeat on their home boards tonight and appear to have the all-around balance to pull the trick.

Sam Simmons, with 190 points for a 15.8 average, will lead Newell in quest of its 10th win in a row and No. 12 for the season. Dennis Carnes, 6-2, has held New Cumberland together with 165 points for a 13.7 average.

ELSEWHERE, the meager schedule offers only three other games and none appear to create much concern in the way of winning streaks or conference leadership.

Once-beaten Midland (12-1 overall) hosts mediocre Riverside, Beaver Local (1-9) journeys to Youngstown East, and South Side visits Burgettstown.

Midland is a favorite to strengthen its hold on first place in the Section 8 rankings where the Leopards stand 5-0. Riverside is 2-3 in loop play.

THE LEOPARDS of Coach Hank Kuzma also own the top record in the district, coasting along in front of Newell, Lisbon and Wellsville, also beaten only once.

While tonight's schedule is unusually light, Friday's reverses the trend with 13 on tap including several big ones.

Wellsville High's Tigers (8-1) appear in for their most serious challenge in weeks against high-scoring Salem (7-3) and the game will be at Salem.

Lisbon stands 7-0 in league play, while Minerva is down the list with a 3-4 record. Adding a bit of rivalry to the crowded schedule is the Stanton Local-Salineville game. The winless Indians traditionally make things rough for the Stanton Red Raiders and will seek revenge for losses during the era of giant Don (The Stilt) Spires. But this year Stanton has Scott Porter, 6-2 senior, who's averaging 19.1 per game.

Bearcats, Loyola Continue In Lead

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati's all-conquering Bearcats remained the undisputed leader among the nation's college basketball teams for the eighth straight week today.

The mighty Bearcats, bent on an unprecedented third straight national championship, made their season record 14-0 last week with a Missouri Valley Conference victory over Bradley.

The triumph, first for Cincinnati at Peoria after five straight losses there in as many seasons, prompted the AP's 45-man panel of sports writers and sportcasters to make the 'Cats an unanimous first-place choice in the weekly poll. It was Cincinnati's 32nd straight victory over a two-season span.

Loyola of Chicago and Illinois, which have been dogging the Bearcats all season, continued in the Nos. 2 and 3 roles but Arizona State dropped from fourth to fifth and Ohio State, sixth a week ago, dropped out of the top ten altogether as Mississippi State returned to the select group.

Duke moved up a peg replacing Arizona State in fourth place and West Virginia jumped three notches, from ninth to sixth. Georgia Tech, Wichita and Stanford retained the seventh, eighth and tenth places, respectively.

The top ten, based on total points alloting 10 for a first place team, 9 for second, 8 for third and down to 1 for tenth place:

1. Cincinnati	450
2. Chicago Loyola	379
3. Illinois	358

5. Arizona State	155
6. West Virginia	120
7. Georgia Tech	115

Contracts Drawn For Title Bout

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Formal contracts have been drawn and may be signed today to bring the Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson return heavyweight championship boxing match to the Convention Hall here April 4.

Al Bolan of Championship Sports, Inc., which will promote the 15-round event, said he was trying to complete negotiations here instead of in New York and expressed belief they would be concluded today.

The only stumbling block could come from the Liston camp, still trying to collect $207,000 from the fight in Chicago last Sept. 25 when Liston won the title from Patterson.

Jack Nilon, advisor to Liston, said he had a copy of the contract but had not received the money. He demanded $85,000 now and the balance in escrow.

Donna's Capture Rolloff Series In Cosmo Loop

Some Weird Happenings Take Place

Middletown Remains 1st, East Tech Takes Second

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Some weird happenings occurred on Ohio's high school basketball courts last week, with the whistle-tooters getting into the act on several occasions.

In Pike County, the underdog Latham team trooped into its dressing room, whooping it up over a 53-52 upset of Peebles. Then word came from the floor that the final basket did not count, the verdict of the officials giving Peebles the contest 52-51.

Milan ran into some ever-blowing arbiters Friday and Saturday. In Milan's 73-61 victory over Monroeville Friday night, 96 free throws were tried. Six Milan and five Monroeville players fouled out, and each team wound up with only three boys on the floor.

The next night, against Norwalk St. Paul, the players tried 103 free throws, and three on each side fouled out — that's 199 charity tosses in two nights. In the last quarter against Norwalk St. Paul, Milan had time for only one field goal but converted 17 of 26 free throws and won the tilt 82-46.

While all that was going on, Middletown's Class AA Middies and Class A Bloomville of Seneca County rolled right on and retained their top berths in the weekly Associated Press poll.

All of last week's Class AA Top Ten stayed in the elite list, but only Middletown and fourth-ranked Warren Harding held the same positions as a week ago.

Cleveland East Tech moved around Dayton Chaminade into second place in Class AA, and Celina Immaculate Conception jumped from fourth to second in Class A, displacing York of Sandusky County.

Ron Volpe, 5-foot-11 Yorkville senior, scored 46 points in a 71-.70 loss against Brilliant (9-1). Steubenville's once - beaten Big Red and once - defeated Warren Harding tangle Saturday in one of the week's big games. Neither has lost to an Ohio foe.

Eight of the poll's Top Ten appear on Salem's slate this season. Last week Niles scored 28 points in the last quarter but lost to Salem 84-72.

Loyola Has Scare At OU Before Posting 17th Win

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Note to Loyola of Chicago's future basketball opposition: If you are waiting for Rambler Coach George Ireland to run thin in the talent department, don't hold your breath.

The fast-moving Ramblers, ranked second in the nation and the country's highest-scoring major college team, have a lot going for them—and that includes youth.

Jerry Harkness is the only senior on Loyola's unbeaten powerhouse. The four other starters are juniors—John Egan, Les Hunter, Vic Rouse and Ron Miller. There is a competent crop of sophomores in reserve, headed by Billy Smith.

Harkness and his junior partners carried Loyola to its 17th season victory Monday night, winning a reasonably tough one at Ohio University 80-72.

In other games on the abbreviated schedule—Iowa squeaked by Michigan State 60-59 in the Big Ten, Notre Dame overpowered Purdue 96-86, and Georgia whipped Stetson 99-80.

The youthful Ramblers, who clicked last season for a 22-4 record and third place in the National Invitation Tournament, overcame Ohio University with their featured strong point—all-around firepower. Harkness led with 20 points, Rouse added 17, Egan 16, Hunter 13 and Miller 12. For the season, Loyola is averaging 98 points per game.

The Bobcats gave the Ramblers a tenacious battle, but they were too severely handicapped when two of their stars, Stacy Bunton and Jerry Jackson, sat out most of the second half with four fouls each. Even so, Ohio forged a 52-52 tie with 14 minutes left before Loyola took charge.

Only three other games involving Ohio teams were played Monday night.

Youngstown came from behind to nip Gannon (Pa.) 53-48, Kent State won its second game of the year against 10 setbacks by outscoring Baldwin - Wallace 83-72, and Steubenville downed West Virginia Wesleyan 77-70 on the losers' floor.

Revenge-Minded Newell Hosts Cumberland Tonight

★ ★ ★ Vikings Have Won Last 9 ★ ★ ★

A preview of the Section 1, Class A tournament finals slated March 2 may unfold tonight when the co-favorites — Newell and New Cumberland — square off at the Wells High gymnasium.

The two Hancock County rivals will most likely wind up in the tourney finals as each has posted decisive victories over the other competitors — Bethany and West Liberty.

NEW CUMBERLAND (9-3) has already bagged a win over Newell, 64-38. That occurred Dec. 7 and since then Coach John Robison's red-hot Newell quint has clicked off nine straight and compiled a sparkling 11-1 record.

The Vikings may exact revenge for their lone defeat on their home boards tonight and appear to have the all-around balance to pull the trick.

Sam Simmons, with 190 points for a 15.8 average, will lead Newell in quest of its 10th win in a row and No. 12 for the season. Dennis Carnes, 6-2, has held New Cumberland together with 165 points for a 13.7 average.

ELSEWHERE, the meager schedule offers only three other games and none appear to create much concern in the way of winning streaks or conference leadership.

Once-beaten Midland (12-1 overall) hosts mediocre Riverside, Beaver Local (1-9) journeys to Youngstown East, and South Side visits Burgettstown.

Midland is a favorite to strengthen its hold on first place in the Section 8 rankings where the Leopards stand 5-0. Riverside is 2-3 in loop play.

THE LEOPARDS of Coach Hank Kuzma also own the top record in the district, coasting along in front of Newell, Lisbon and Wellsville, also beaten only once.

While tonight's schedule is unusually light, Friday's reverses the trend with 13 on tap including several big ones.

Wellsville High's Tigers (8-1) appear in for their most serious challenge in weeks against high-scoring Salem (7-3) and the game will be at Salem.

Lisbon stands 7-0 in league play, while Minerva is down the list with a 3-4 record. Adding a bit of rivalry to the crowded schedule is the Stanton Local-Salineville game. The winless Indians traditionally make things rough for the Stanton Red Raiders and will seek revenge for losses during the era of giant Don (The Stilt) Spires. But this year Stanton has Scott Porter, 6-2 senior, who's averaging 19.1 per game.

Westgate Eighth Graders Eke Out Win Over Tigers

The victory avenged an earlier loss to Wellsville. Westgate jumped out to a 12-3 lead, showed a 16-11 advantage at halftime and was on top 23-20 after three periods before a Wellsville rally almost caught the wildcats.

Leading the way for Westgate were Mike McVay and Dave Alford with eight points each while Earl Diddle added seven. Wellsville's Weekley took game honors with 11.

Westgate, with a 4-3 record now, travels to Columbiana tonight then returns home to meet Beaver Local Wednesday.

Bearcats, Loyola Continue In Lead

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati's all-conquering Bearcats remained the undisputed leader among the nation's college basketball teams for the eighth straight week today.

The mighty Bearcats, bent on an unprecedented third straight national championship, made their season record 14-0 last week with a Missouri Valley Conference victory over Bradley.

The triumph, first for Cincinnati at Peoria after five straight losses there in as many seasons, prompted the AP's 45-man panel of sports writers and sportcasters to make the 'Cats an unanimous first-place choice in the weekly poll. It was Cincinnati's 32nd straight victory over a two-season span.

Loyola of Chicago and Illinois, which have been dogging the Bearcats all season, continued in the Nos. 2 and 3 roles but Arizona State dropped from fourth to fifth and Ohio State, sixth a week ago, dropped out of the top ten altogether as Mississippi State returned to the select group.

Duke moved up a peg replacing Arizona State in fourth place and West Virginia jumped three notches, from ninth to sixth. Georgia Tech, Wichita and Stanford retained the seventh, eighth and tenth places, respectively.

The top ten, based on total points alloting 10 for a first place team, 9 for second, 8 for third and down to 1 for tenth place:

1. Cincinnati	450
2. Chicago Loyola	379
3. Illinois	358
4. Duke	282
5. Arizona State	155
6. West Virginia	120
7. Georgia Tech	115
8. Wichita	107

Contracts Drawn For Title Bout

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Formal contracts have been drawn and may be signed today to bring the Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson return heavyweight championship boxing match to the Convention Hall here April 4.

Al Bolan of Championship Sports, Inc., which will promote the 15-round event, said he was trying to complete negotiations here instead of in New York and expressed belief they would be concluded today.

The only stumbling block could come from the Liston camp, still trying to collect $207,000 from the fight in Chicago last Sept. 25 when Liston won the title from Patterson.

Jack Nilon, advisor to Liston, said he had a copy of the contract but had not received the money. He demanded $85,000 now and the balance in escrow.

Some Weird Happenings Take Place

Middletown Remains 1st, East Tech Takes Second

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Some weird happenings occurred on Ohio's high school basketball courts last week, with the whistle-tooters getting into the act on several occasions.

In Pike County, the underdog Latham team trooped into its dressing room, whooping it up over a 53-52 upset of Peebles. Then word came from the floor that the final basket did not count, the verdict of the officials giving Peebles the contest 52-51.

Milan ran into some ever-blowing arbiters Friday and Saturday. In Milan's 73-61 victory over Monroeville Friday night, 96 free throws were tried. Six Milan and five Monroeville players fouled out, and each team wound up with only three boys on the floor.

The next night, against Norwalk St. Paul, the players tried 103 free throws, and three on each side fouled out — that's 199 charity tosses in two nights. In the last quarter against Norwalk St. Paul, Milan had time for only one field goal but converted 17 of 26 free throws and won the tilt 82-46.

While all that was going on, Middletown's Class AA Middies and Class A Bloomville of Seneca County rolled right on and retained their top berths in the weekly Associated Press poll.

All of last week's Class AA Top Ten stayed in the elite list, but only Middletown and fourth-ranked Warren Harding held the same positions as a week ago.

Cleveland East Tech moved around Dayton Chaminade into second place in Class AA, and Celina Immaculate Conception jumped from fourth to second in Class A, displacing York of Sandusky County.

Ron Volpe, 5-foot-11 Yorkville senior, scored 46 points in a 71-70 loss against Brilliant (9-1). Steubenville's once - beaten Big Red and once - defeated Warren Harding tangle Saturday in one of the week's big games. Neither has lost to an Ohio foe.

Eight of the poll's Top Ten appear on Salem's slate this season. Last week Niles scored 28 points in the last quarter but lost to Salem 84-72.

Loyola Has Scare At OU Before Posting 17th Win

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Note to Loyola of Chicago's future basketball opposition: If you are waiting for Rambler Coach George Ireland to run thin in the talent department, don't hold your breath.

The fast-moving Ramblers, ranked second in the nation and the country's highest-scoring major college team, have a lot going for them—and that includes youth.

Jerry Harkness is the only senior on Loyola's unbeaten powerhouse. The four other starters are juniors—John Egan, Les Hunter, Vic Rouse and Ron Miller. There is a competent crop of sophomores in reserve, headed by Billy Smith.

Harkness and his junior partners carried Loyola to its 17th season victory Monday night, winning a reasonably tough one at Ohio University 80-72.

In other games on the abbreviated schedule—Iowa squeaked by Michigan State 60-59 in the Big Ten, Notre Dame overpowered Purdue 96-86, and Georgia whipped Stetson 99-80.

The youthful Ramblers, who clicked last season for a 22-4 record and third place in the National Invitation Tournament, overcame Ohio University with their featured strong point—all-around firepower. Harkness led with 20 points, Rouse added 17, Egan 16, Hunter 13 and Miller 12. For the season, Loyola is averaging 98 points per game.

The Bobcats gave the Ramblers a tenacious battle, but they were too severely handicapped when two of their stars, Stacy Bunton and Jerry Jackson, sat out most of the second half with four fouls each. Even so, Ohio forged a 52-52 tie with 14 minutes left before Loyola took charge.

Only three other games involving Ohio teams were played Monday night.

Youngstown came from behind to nip Gannon (Pa.) 53-48, Kent State won its second game of the year against 10 setbacks by outscoring Baldwin - Wallace 83-72, and Steubenville downed West Virginia Wesleyan 77-70 on the losers' floor.

Guild Mortgages Building To Pay Strike Benefits

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Newspaper Guild, announcing it is mortgaging its headquarters building to help pay strike benefits to members, has urged that fresh personnel be brought into negotiations if necessary to end this city's 46-day newspaper shutdown.

At a membership meeting Monday night, the guild adopted a resolution calling on Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and federal mediators to insist that striking printers and newspaper publishers "resume negotiations and continue in session until an agreement has been reached."

Both sides, the resolution said, "seem to be unable to remain at the bargaining table long enough to effectively discuss a settlement."

M. Michael Potoker, secretary-treasurer of the New York Guild, told the meeting that the union has paid $1,270,000 in strike benefits to some 5,000 idled members here. Benefits have ranged from $30 to $80 a member, depending on family status.

The local strike fund has paid $150,000 in strike benefits to some 5,000 idled members here. Benefits have ranged from $30 to $80 a member, depending on family status.

The local strike fund has $159,000 left in it, Potoker said. Some $700,000 has been borrowed from other AFL-CIO organizations.

The local fund needs $420,000 more, he added, if it is to pay benefits until newspaper people idled by the printers' strike begin drawing state unemployment compensation Feb. 1.

Potoker said the parent American Newspaper Guild is contributing $150,000 toward benefits, a bank loan of $70,000 is planned, mortgaging of New York Guild headquarters will raise an additional $150,000, and the guild is ready to cash in $50,000 worth of government bonds.

Full Air Cover Vowed, Invasion Leader Declares

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A leader in the exile organization that mounted the 1961 Cuban invasion insists that the anti-Castro brigade was promised full air cover.

The exile leader, Antonio de Varona of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, said he was obliged to "break silence" because of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's statement Monday that no United States air cover ever was planned.

The attorney general said President Kennedy couldn't have issued last-minute orders cancelling air cover, as many administration critics have maintained, because there were never any plans for the United States to provide air support.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., also took issue with the attorney general in Washington. Goldwater said he talked with the President just after the invasion and "I certainly got the impression then that an air cover had been part of the original invasion plans."

Guild Mortgages Building To Pay Strike Benefits

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Newspaper Guild, announcing it is mortgaging its headquarters building to help pay strike benefits to members, has urged that fresh personnel be brought into negotiations if necessary to end this city's 46-day newspaper shutdown.

At a membership meeting Monday night, the guild adopted a resolution calling on Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and federal mediators to insist that striking printers and newspaper publishers "resume negotiations and continue in session until an agreement has been reached."

Both sides, the resolution said, "seem to be unable to remain at the bargaining table long enough to effectively discuss a settlement."

M. Michael Potoker, secretary-treasurer of the New York Guild, told the meeting that the union has paid $1,270,000 in strike benefits to some 5,000 idled members here. Benefits have ranged from $30 to $80 a member, depending on family status.

The local strike fund has paid $159,000 in strike benefits to some 5,000 idled members here. Benefits have ranged from $30 to $80 a member, depending on family status.

The local strike fund has $159,000 left in it, Potoker said. Some $700,000 has been borrowed from other AFL-CIO organizations.

The local fund needs $420,000 more, he added, if it is to pay benefits until newspaper people idled by the printers' strike begin drawing state unemployment compensation Feb. 1.

Potoker said the parent American Newspaper Guild is contributing $150,000 toward benefits, a bank loan of $70,000 is planned, mortgaging of New York Guild headquarters will raise an additional $150,000, and the guild is ready to cash in $50,000 worth of government bonds.

Full Air Cover Vowed, Invasion Leader Declares

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A leader in the exile organization that mounted the 1961 Cuban invasion insists that the anti-Castro brigade was promised full air cover.

The exile leader, Antonio de Varona of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, said he was obliged to "break silence" because of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's statement Monday that no United States air cover ever was planned.

The attorney general said President Kennedy couldn't have issued last-minute orders cancelling air cover, as many administration critics have maintained, because there were never any plans for the United States to provide air support.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., also took issue with the attorney general in Washington. Goldwater said he talked with the President just after the invasion and "I certainly got the impression then that an air cover had been part of the original invasion plans."

IN memory of my beloved husband John E. Chavis who passed away one year ago Jan. 22, 1962.
I am sad and lonely in my heart today. For the one I loved so dearly has forever been called away.
I think of him in silence. No one can see me weep. But many tears are shed while others are asleep. Faithful and honest in all his ways Devoted and true to the end of his days. Loving, gentle, patient and kind. What a beautiful memory he left behind.
Loving wife Roberta.

3 CARDS OF THANKS

IN the death of our husband and father, Richard R. Curren, we wish to express our appreciation for all the expressions of sympathy during our recent bereavement. Also those who sent floral offerings and to Rev. M. Rudolph Miller for his kind words. — Mrs. Richard R. Curren, wife. Son, Richard R. and daughter-in-law Joan and daughters Ruth Ann and Mary Lou Curren.

Pope John XXIII was given two small white lambs in Vatican City on the occasion of St. Agnes Day in a centuries-old tradition.

The wool of the two lambs, when they grow up, will be used to make the pallium, a circular band worn on the shoulders by the Pope, archbishops and patriarchs.

The pallia are made by oblates of St. Frances of Rome.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko will pay a three-day visit to Denmark in March, the Danish Foreign Ministry announced in Copenhagen.

U.S. Ambassador Walworth Barbour was received by Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion in Jerusalem for a lengthy discussion which was understood to be a continuation of last month's Florida talks between President Kennedy and Foreign Minister Golda Meir on U.S. proposals to solve the Arab refugee problem.

Odd Facts

The Gila monster, a large lizard of Mexico and the southwestern United States, is known to be poisonous, although it is not so dangerous as venomous snakes since it must chew on its victim in order to get an appreciable amount of venom into the wounds. The venom is chiefly nerve-affecting in action and can cause death in human beings. It is estimated that the mortality rate from Gila monster bites is about 20 per cent.

Junior Editors Quiz on DANCING

QUESTION: What is the history of dancing?

ANSWER: Man has danced all through history. About the time we find the first evidences of art, we find pictures of people dancing — about 50,000 years ago. No one knows exactly how the first dances began. They may have been imitations of animals early man depended upon for food. Or perhaps these first dances were simply expressions of the joy of living, as our artist has suggested, as he shows a stone age daddy and his children cutting up around a fire. People have always enjoyed rhythm, whether expressed in a Roman war dance (1), the exquisitely styled movements of the Siamese (2), the lusty dancing of the Scottish Highlands (3), the floating beauty of the classic ballet (4) or our own Twist, (5). Think of the thousands of other dances one might name and illustrate! It seems safe to predict that as long as people feel healthy and in good spirits, they will want to express rhythm through this ancient art form — the dance.

FOR YOU TO DO: Invite a few friends and give a "down-through-the-ages" dance party. You could use ideas from our illustration and add others of your own.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today's highlight in history:

On this day in 1871, bands of loosely organized French snipers blew up the Moselle railway bridge at Fontenoy. Purpose of the sabotage was to retard a German advance during the Franco-Prussian War.

On this day:

In 1813, U.S. prisoners taken by the British and Indians were massacred in Michigan.

Actress Ann Sothern is 52.

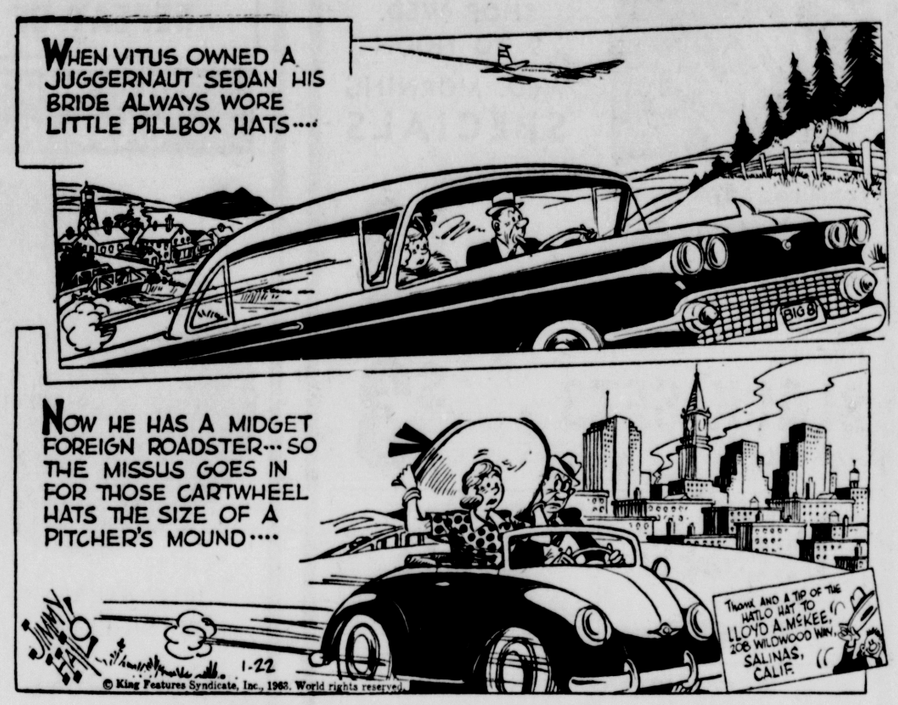

Thought for today:
